CHS Senior Class Presents A Most Appealing Play

By SUE BOYER
Herald Staff Writer

One of the most appealing plays to be offered lately to the area public is currently being presented at our own Circleville High School by the senior class. Directed by drama teacher Neal L. Handler, the characterization as well as the action is pure delight. It is an imaginative interpretation of a brilliant script.

"Great Caesar's Ghost" written by William D. Fisher premiered at the high school Friday night and will run for a second performance tonight at 8 p.m. The curtain opens on a breathtakingly beautiful stage setting which was created by members of the senior class. Tracey Jolliffe served as stage manager.

In creating the illusion of the ghost, the class has come up with special effects which will amaze the most critical eye.

Heading the list of performers is Barb Dowd as Mrs. Penelope Maxwell. This is the best performance of any high school student I have had chance to observe.

Miss Dowd is new this year to the school system but has shown the public her talents in both singing and acting. She has been featured with the Roundtown Players and is a member of the choir of the Presbyterian Church here in Circleville.

During Friday's performance, the audience response was spectacular for Miss Dowd's acting talents.

Audrey May plays Mrs. Phoebe DeRoyster, Penelope's best friend. There is no question about Audrey's talents either. She made her debut on the stage in last year's junior class play and, if possible, is even better this year.

Other truly outstanding performances were done by Debbie Coey as a thwarted and belligerent adolescent, David Harman as the explorer Uncle Phineas, and Lowell Hunter as the stuffy butler.

Two completely charming scenes include the butler's flirtation with Esther the maid played by DeeDee Poling and the bickering between the cook and the "cake thief."

The thief played by Steve Stocklin is a smaller part but is nonetheless one of the most enjoyable parts of the play. Evelyn Howard plays the cook who alternately chases Stocklin with a skillet, a rolling pin, and a meat cleaver. Steve's part also calls for an infatuation for the adolescent who incidentally "blooms" into something more desirable before the play is finished.

Sarah Happeney plays Helen, Penelope's daughter. This is one of the parts that holds the play together since there is a long interval when Sarah is one of the main characters on the stage.

Also starring in the play is Ben McDaniel as Mahjah the Mystic, Kristi Rahe as Aunt Polly and Allen Dray as Tommy Tucker.

The plot, while captivating enough, will not be revealed here and now. Hopefully, with this insight as to the endowment of this group of CHS seniors you will be tempted to see it for yourself.

Malpractice Bill Changes Proposed

MANSFIELD, Ohio (AP) — Ohio anesthesiologists adopted a proposal for changes in the omnibus medical malpractice bill currently in the Ohio House following a week-long malpractice insurance seminar that ended Friday.

"We don't consider our suggestions to be a panacea for the problem," said seminar coordinator Dr. David Massa of Mansfield. "But we encourage their inclusion in the House bill, which offers the only short-term solution to the immediate problem of continued health care delivery."

The bill, submitted by state Insurance Director Harry V. Jump, calls for the formation of an assigned risk pool of the major providers of liability in Ohio.

This pool, to be known as the "joint underwriters authority," would write policies for physicians and hospitals unable to obtain coverage for reasonable premiums in the open market.

"It isn't clear what type of policy we would have under the joint underwriting authority," Massa said.

"There are two types of occurrence and claims made. We're asking them to tell us which one they're talking about."

The 130 anesthesiologists attending the Mansfield seminar also called for a clarification of the bill's continuing education requirement.

"It says 150 hours every three years," Massa said. "But do they mean quarter hours or semester hours?"

Pay Raise Foregone

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — Some 7,500 workers in six Libbey-Owens-Ford plants will forego an eight-cent hourly cost of living pay raise this year in an effort to avoid future layoffs, according to a union spokesman.

Joseph Roman of Toledo, international president of the United Glass Workers, said Friday the move, agreed to in negotiations with the company, affects workers in three L-O-F plants here and others at Charleston, W.Va., Lathrop, Calif., and Ottawa, Ill.

Roman said the union agreed to bypass the contractual wage adjustment, scheduled to go into effect May 5, because the company was hurt financially by cutbacks in the auto industry. L-O-F is a major supplier of glass for the auto industry.

A spokesman for the company said the action will save L-O-F about $3 million over the remaining two years of its contract with the union.

Brown Beckons 17-Year-Olds

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Secretary of State Ted W. Brown has reminded the state's 17-year-olds they are eligible to vote in this year's primary election if they will be 18 by the time of the Nov. 4 general election.

A change in Ohio election laws permits the 17-year-olds to vote for candidates, but not on issues. However, Brown pointed out they first register by the May 5 deadline.

Huong Clears Way For New Regime

SAIGON (AP) — President Tran Van Huong, rejected by the Communists as a negotiating partner, offered today to resign to enable the National Assembly to name Gen. Duong Van "Big" Minh as a neutralist president.

As the assembly began an urgent debate on Huong's offer, the military command reported shelling attacks south and west of the capital but no major fighting.

The Viet Cong delegation at its weekly news conference refused to say whether they would enter into peace talks with Minh, but the retired general is believed to be acceptable to them.

Sources close to Minh said if he became president he would call for an immediate ceasefire and appoint a "cabinet of reconciliation."

In Washington, U.S. officials said a cease-fire in Vietnam and the start of peace negotiations could come early next week. It was learned that Huong's offer to quit was worked out by Saigon leaders and U.S. Ambassador Graham Martin.

Huong, 71, succeeded to the presidency last Monday when Nguyen Van Thieu resigned in an effort to clear the way for peace talks with the Communists, whose forces have overrun three-fourths of South Vietnam and are in position to take Saigon.

But the Viet Cong rejected Huong as a puppet of Thieu and demanded a complete change of government.

A news blackout from Cambodia continued on the last day of a three-day celebration of the capture of Phnom Penh by the Communist-led Khmer Rouge.

South Vietnam's battlefields remained quiet today. The Saigon command reported shelling at Tay Ninh and Trang Bang northwest of the capital and at an air field in the Mekong Delta to the south. It reported no casualties.

The command also reported three ground engagements south of Saigon and listed 68 North Vietnamese and four government troops killed.

It is generally conceded that North Vietnamese troops massed around the capital could capture Saigon any time. But the Communists have held back, offering hope that a negotiated settlement was possible if a suitable South Vietnamese government takes over.

"We don't have much time," said Senator Le Chau Loc, a Roman Catholic. "The other side has shown some restraint but I would guess we only have 24 to 48 hours to decide."

Huong, in a 10-minute address to a joint session of the assembly, charged that the United States abandoned South Vietnam and that "our friends do not want to help us anymore. We now have no other choice but to negotiate."

He asked the legislators either to accept his resignation or to grant him full power to form a "government of negotiation."

Bank Robbery Leaves 11 Dead

MEXICO CITY (AP) — A dozen leftist guerrillas led by a "dark and pretty" woman machine-gunned at least 11 persons to death in a bank holdup that got them $12,000, police and witnesses said.

Eight policemen were shot to death Friday during a wild chase by 36 police cars and two helicopters across the city. Two suspects were captured, one of them wounded.

Police said the others killed included two passersby and a bank teller. Two others were wounded.

Police Chief Daniel Gutierrez Santos told reporters the two captives said they were members of the Red Brigade of the 23rd of September Communist League, a guerrilla band advocating violent revolution.

The young bandits — eight men and four women — attacked the Banco de Comercio branch shortly after it opened for business.

Witnesses said some of the robbers fired machine guns and pistols as they ran inside, while others remained outside firing at police cars.

"They came in with guns blazing all over the place," said the deputy bank manager, Maria de Los Angeles Perez. "There were about 50 gunshots. I threw myself to the floor and everyone else did the same thing. I was really scared and thought I was going to get shot. There was a lot of blood around. I saw the body of a policeman on the ground shot in the head. It was all very fast. It must have happened in less than five minutes."

The bandits demanded money from a teller and then shot him in the stomach, fatally wounding him.

"A woman appeared to be the chief," said Rodolfo Martinez, another bank officer. "She was dark and pretty with a very strong voice." Other witnesses said she was the one who emptied the cash drawers.

Outside the bank a witness said some of the bandits "stuck their guns in the windows of a patrol car and fired a lot of shots at the policemen inside."

Congress Nears OK On Troop Use

WASHINGTON (AP) — Authority for the use of U.S. military men in South Vietnam to aid in the evacuation of Americans and some Vietnamese, and funds for humanitarian aid are expected to win final congressional approval Tuesday.

The bill would prohibit President Ford from using any more troops than are necessary, or any longer than they are needed, to evacuate Americans and their dependents. It also would grant $327 million in humanitarian aid.

The Senate approved the bill Friday 46 to 17 after it was worked out by House-Senate conferees. It was approved over objections that Americans are not being pulled out of Saigon fast enough to prevent the use of force.

"The longer they are there the greater the danger that a large U.S. force will have to go in for an extended time to bring them out," said Sen. Dick Clark, D-Iowa.

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., said the bill gives Ford "flexibility where in the most dire circumstances he may give some payments to get people out or military assistance."

In response to questions, he said that could even include payment of bribes, although he said he doubts bribes will be necessary.

Humphrey also said he believes the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong have signalled that they want to set up a provisional government in Saigon and are willing to let Americans and some Vietnamese leave the country peacefully.

U.S. officials say a cease-fire in Vietnam and the start of negotiations for a political settlement could come early next week.

Their assessment came as South Vietnamese President Tran Van Huong offered to resign in favor of a government acceptable to North Vietnam and the Viet Cong.

White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen refused to comment on a report that South Vietnam was trying to send a cabinet officer to Hanoi on a U.S. Air Force plane to negotiate a settlement.

Nessen told newsmen it was "a subject too delicate and sensitive to discuss here."

Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger denied a report by Rep. William S. Broomfield, R-Mich., that a "tacit understanding" had been reached with North Vietnam to permit evacuation of all nonessential Americans by Monday.

SWCS Celebrates 40th Birthday Sunday

By DAVE AMEY
Herald City Editor

There will be a double anniversary Sunday that should be lauded by conservationists in Pickaway County and across the United States.

April 27th will mark the 40th year of the Soil and Water Conservation Service and the 30th anniversary of the establishment of the Pickaway Soil and Water Conservation District.

Since its inception, concerned personnel of the service have attempted to follow a basic objective of all soil conservation activities - to use each acre of land within its capabilities and to treat each acre in accordance with its needs for protection and improvement.

The United States Congress adopted and the President signed the Soil Conservation Act (Public Law 46) on April 27, 1935.

It states that:

"It is hereby recognized that the wastage of soil and moisture resources on farms, grazing, and forest lands of the Nation, resulting from soil erosion, is a menace to the national welfare and that it is hereby declared to be the policy of Congress to provide permanently for the control and prevention of soil erosion and thereby to preserve natural resources, control floods, prevent impairment of reservoirs, protect public health, public land and relieve unemployment."

Conservation of soil and water was recognized much earlier, however, as a means of increasing crop production and saving the land.

George Washington practiced crop rotation and contouring and recognized the need to protect the native fertility of the soil.

The first comprehensive appraisal of soil erosion, "Soil Erosion, A National Menace," was authored by Hugh Bennett and W. Chapline in 1928.

As a result of their work, the U.S. Congress authorized the Secretary of Agriculture to establish 10 regional soil erosion experiment stations across the nation Feb. 16, 1929.

The objective of the stations was to measure soil and water loss, determine the extent of the soil erosion problem, and to work out methods of control and prevention of soil erosion.

One of the 10 experimental stations was located in Muskingham County in a farm near Zanesville. Work was discontinued there in 1948.

But the newly-established Soil Conservation Service had its start. A Hydrological Experiment Station was established in Cochocton to further research the problems of soil and water conservation.

Other agencies pitched in to help with the problem before Congress established the agency.

The National Recovery Act of 1933 provided unemployed persons with a chance to work on conservation problems, and the Soil Erosion Service was established later in the year with Bennett as director.

As a result, 41 soil and water conservation demonstration projects were established and 50 Civilian Conservation Corps camps were devised and assigned to complete erosion control work.

Some of their efforts are still evident in Pickaway County.

It took the worst dust storm in the nation's history to arouse the people and congress to escalate the work in soil and water conservation.

That occurred May 12, 1934 when high winds swept thick clouds of dust from the Great Plains to the Atlantic Ocean.

After the congressional action, the first Soil Conservation District was chartered in North Carolina Aug. 4, 1937.

The Ohio Soil and Water Conservation Committee was established by House Bill 646, passed by the Ohio Legislature May 16, 1941.

Districts had to be created by referendum vote and Highland County incorporated into the first Ohio district April 18, 1942.

In 1945, Pickaway County became the 32nd county in Ohio to become a district.

Members of the first Board of Supervisors of the Pickaway District were Lawrence Liston, Stuart Beers, Ralph May, Wayne Brown, and Frank Beatty. They were elected by the citizens of the county.

The current Board of Supervisors is elected every three years. Their objective is to set up and develop both long and short-range plans and to set priorities.

Members of the Board are David Bolender, chairman, Paul Schein, Pete

A private guard in a grocery store across the street ran out when he heard the shooting. "One guy came up behind him and put a pistol to the back of the guard's neck and shot him twice," the store manager said.

Another burst of fire killed an architect getting into his car.

The police account said the bandits used three getaway cars including a commandeered taxi, and blazed away with their machine guns, hitting policemen and pedestrians.

One policeman was killed and another wounded five miles from the bank. The machine gun fire hit a helicopter but it landed safely.

Two bandits abandoned a getaway car and stormed into a house, shooting the owner in the face. He was in critical condition.

The 23rd of September Communist League, named for a shootout between guerrillas and soldiers a few years ago, has claimed responsibility for two bank robberies Dec. 10 in which six policemen died.

Bacterial Wilt May Be Problem In Corn Crop

By GEORGE HAMRICK
County Extension Agent,
Agriculture

An old disease may create new problems in Ohio corn in 1975, according to Ohio Agricultural Research and Development Center plant pathology researcher R. W. Caldwell. The disease is Stewart's bacterial wilt and it tends to be more of a problem in spring following a mild winter.

Dr. Caldwell urges Ohio farmers to keep a close watch for symptoms of the disease in young corn plants this spring. He says diseased leaves show long, pale-green to yellow streaks with wavy margins. The streaks become dry and brown and may extend into the stalk. Young diseased plants wilt rapidly and resemble drought-stricken plants. Infected plants which do not die are usually stunted and may not produce ears.

According to Caldwell, the bacterium which causes the disease overwinters in the bodies of corn flea beetles.

In the Pledge of Allegiance, and Lori Neal led the 4-H pledge. The club's point system was announced.

The following meeting dates were set up: May 5th - safety; May 19th - health; June 9th - beef, at Chris Riddle's; June 23rd - swine, at April and Lori Neal's; July 7th - rabbit and sheep, at Tim Lett's; July 20th - the club tour and recreation meeting.

The next meeting will be held at the Derby School, May 5, at 7:30 p.m.

STYLISH STITCHERS

By Kim Crookham

The Stylish Stitchers met at the home of Glenna Ett on April 15.

Members discussed different ideas on how to make different art displays, new styles and colors, good grooming and how to look at the fair.

Refreshments were served by Angie Schoonover and Terrie and Peggy Young.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Janet Zwyer, June 5 at 7:30 p.m.

Research entomologist G. J. Musick describes the flea beetle as an oval, black insect about 1-16th of an inch long. The beetles come out of hibernation in the spring and as they feed introduce bacteria into leaves of the young corn seedling. During the growing season, flea beetles and their progeny continue to spread bacteria from diseased to healthy plants.

Caldwell says the prevalence of bacterial wilt varies from year to year depending on winter survival of the beetles. Following mild winters, large numbers of the beetles survive, start infections, and spread the disease during the following growing season. Cold winters reduce beetle numbers so there is usually little early infection, thus restricting the area over which the disease spreads.

Scientists have developed an index, based on winter temperatures, to predict the potential severity of Stewart's bacterial wilt. Here's how it works: monthly mean temperatures in degrees Fahrenheit for the winter months of December, January, and February are added together to calculate the index. Disease incidence predictions are based on the index as follows:

Index below 90, little disease; Index 90-100, light to severe disease; Index above 100, severe disease.

The current disease indexes for different sites look like this: OARDC headquarters, Wayne County, 90.3; Mahoning County Farm, 90.4; Eastern Ohio Resource Development Center, Noble County, 105.6; Jackson Branch, Jackson County, 104.4; North Central Branch, Erie County, 85.4; Northwestern Branch, Wood County, 85.4; and Western Branch, Clark County, 91.9.

On the basis of the current indexes, Caldwell says it appears the southern two-thirds of Ohio can expect a light to severe incidence of Stewart's bacterial wilt. However, he warns that the actual disease severity may be greater than indicated by the index because the state has had three successive mild winters, allowing the flea beetle population to gradually build up to high levels.

A year ago, temperature indexes were approximately the same as the current ones and bacterial wilt was widespread.

Caldwell says the planting of resistant hybrids is the best means of controlling Stewart's bacterial wilt. Generally, dent corn varieties are more resistant than sweet corn, but in 1974, the disease was widespread on some dent corn hybrids. A severe disease potential may warrant the use of an insecticide to control flea beetles.

Dr. Musick says the insecticide Sevin is recommended for flea beetle control. Applications should begin as soon as flea beetles are noticed in the cornfield and should continue at weekly intervals until mid-June. In rainy periods, more frequent application may be required. For best control, applications should begin as soon as the corn emerges. Check the label for proper application rates and usage precautions.

Don't Waste Lawn Seed

By GEORGE HAMRICK
County Extension Agent
Agriculture

Throwing lawn seed on an existing lawn without some form of preparation is like throwing money in a rat hole.

There are a number of things you must consider - and do - if you want an overseeding venture to pay off, says David P. Martin, Extension Agronomist at The Ohio State University.

Determine first if you really need an overseeding, or will proper fertilization thicken existing grass with better results. If you decide the lawn is too thin and needs overseeding, what next?

Martin says the surface soil must be tilled by verticutting or dethatching so the seed can come in contact with loose soil. Only then will the seed have a chance to germinate and grow, adding to the turf density.

The right kind of seed is important, too. Try to use the same type of grass seed that are already present in your lawn. In most Ohio lawns, this is Kentucky bluegrass, red fescue, perennial ryegrass, or tall fescue, Martin says. However, the majority of lawns contain Kentucky bluegrass.

Most seed packages in garden centers are from a reputable seed company. Still, there are always some low priced seed lots available, and these are unacceptable, he says. Martin recently observed a large display of cheap lawn seed that contained 90 per cent annual ryegrass. This lot of seed is completely unacceptable as a permanent lawn turf, and anyone buying this particular mixture is simply wasting money, he says.

4-H

The honor score sheets which were recently given to 4-H advisors have given more emphasis to 4-H promotion. The 4-H advisors have been asked to get two illustrated news articles into the Extension Office. Another option is to have members of the club on the radio with me on Saturday mornings. If the clubs want to be on the radio, please contact me to get you on the schedule.

4-H camp is always a very important part of the 4-H year. All members are eligible to go to camp at Tar Hollow. The cost of the camps are $11 for three day camps and $14 for the four day camps. Each member will receive a letter and an entry form in the mail. They must fill out the entry form and return it to the Extension Office. If members want to be in a cabin with their friends, they should write the names of their friends on the bottom of the form.

There are three camps. The members are divided up into different age groups. The beginners camp is for 7-10 year olds, and is held June 10-13. The junior camp is for members 11-13 years old and will be held July 5-9. The senior camp is going to be a camp held with Ross and Fairfield Counties. It will be different from traditional 4-H camps. The theme is "Pioneer Reflections."

This camp is for people 14 years old and above. The camp will be held June 20-23. The age groups are not strict rules but more guidelines. We want to have members camping with their friends but like to have the member at camp about the same age. We think camp will be fun and instructional for all age groups.

There will be a 4-H lamb sale 8 p.m. May 3 at the Pickaway County Fairgrounds Sheep barns. Members who have not yet gotten their lamb, this will be the opportunity to get a fine animal from homegrown stock.

says. Be sure to read the label before buying.

The best time to overseed your lawn is early spring or early fall. In the spring, do the job as soon as the soil is dry enough to till. Complete the job before May 1, for best results, Martin says.

A moderate rate of fertilizer can be applied at the same time to provide adequate nutrients for good turf growth, he says. Also, you'll need to provide moisture, if rain doesn't follow the operation. As seed begins to germinate, be sure there is plenty of moisture to keep seedlings from dying. This may mean running your lawn sprinkler often enough to keep the soil damp and until new seedlings are established.

With a moderate-rate application of fertilizer now, you'll need to make another application in late May, Martin says.

And, a word of caution . . . if you have used a pre-emergence herbicide for crabgrass control, don't seed, or you'll kill the young seedlings as they germinate.

Farm Pond Weeds Can Be Controlled

By GEORGE HAMRICK
County Extension Agent
Agriculture

Proper management of established ponds usually requires the use of some chemicals. These are especially important in the control of weeds, says Thomas Stockdale, Extension Specialist in the School of Natural Resources at The Ohio State University.

Use of chemicals will depend largely on the uses made of the pond. Some chemicals cannot be applied in water that will be used for human or livestock consumption, for irrigation, or for spray water. Some chemicals place limits on the use of the pond for swimming for a period of time after application.

The first problem most Ohio pond owners encounter is undesirable plant growth in the pond, says Stockdale. This growth takes many forms and can cause a variety of problems, he adds.

Algae is usually the first "weed" to appear. Called "scum" or "moss" by many people, algae is floating masses of green hair-like vegetation. It is a nuisance to fishermen and swimmers, detracts from the appearance of the pond, and can contribute to fish kill and to off-flavors and odors in the water, the specialist explains.

Copper sulfate (C u2SO4), called blue vitrole by some people, is the chemical most frequently used to control this problem. A concentration of this chemical must be created in the total volume of water where the problem exists, Stockdale says. The concentration must be 1 part per million. To achieve this, add 2.7 pounds of C u2SO4 per acre foot of water. To determine the number of acre feet, multiply the surface area of the pond (in acres) by the average depth of water in feet.

The easiest way to apply copper sulfate is to place the required amount in a burlap bag and drag it in the pond until the copper sulfate dissolves, Stockdale says.

WARNING - Control of heavy infestations of weeds can contribute to a fish kill. To reduce this hazard, treat half of the pond, then wait 7 to 10 days before treating the second half. Also do not apply copper sulfate when fish are spawning.

Other materials are also available for control of filamentous algae, says Stockdale. For these and other aquatic weed control chemicals, check with your local supplier and be sure to read the labels carefully.

A Page Of Opinion

Communicating A Cure

April is the month a Cancer Crusade volunteer comes to call, same as in past years. If you were to ask, "What's new? Any nearer a cure for cancer?" the answer might be, "Yes and no. It depends on you."

That might seem a foolish reply. It's true, though.

Americans continue to die of cancer by the thousands. But more individuals than ever are being saved from cancer — one in three, whereas it was one in five 25 years ago.

There are many reasons for the upturn. Detection has improved. So have radiology, surgery and chemotherapy. But the nearest thing to a cure for cancer is communication, simple people-to-people communication.

That can start when the cancer volunteer calls to deliver a copy of the seven danger signals. If a suspicious symptom shows up, the next link in the chain of communication is a call to the family doctor. He'll take it from there.

His last word might be, "There's nothing to worry about; it's not cancer." But if it should be cancer, early detection and prompt attention provide the best means of overcoming it.

Instead Of The Knocks

ON THE LINE
By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK — From the accounts I read of the annual meeting in Washington of the nation's newspaper editors, the Shoreham-American Hotel headquarters was awash in meapulpas. The prescribed dress of the delegates seems to have been sackcloth and ashes. The sounds of self-flagellation were heard even during the cocktail parties. Many committee meetings were said to have been delayed because the members spent so much time in make-up, having lumps put in their throats.

Have heart, men and women editors! You're not all bad. Neither are your reporters, who incidentally, never have much in the way of representation or a voice at your yearly soul-searchings.

It seemed particularly inappropriate for Michael Novak, author-teacher-journalist-politician, to express the view that "... even most reporters appear to be talking only to themselves and the other 10 per cent of Americans at the top of the educational and wage scales."

One must assume that he included Sydney H. Schanberg and the other correspondents who chose to remain in Phnom Penh to keep the news flowing not only to Park Avenue but to every hamlet in the land. (Not to forget Schanberg's fellow N.Y. Timesman, Malcolm W. Browne in Saigon.)

The UPI and AP staffers still slugging out copy in Phnom Penh, Saigon, Xuan Loc and other doomed places, as Novak derisively generalized, include Alan Dawson, Leon Daniel, Charles Smith, Ken Engle, Robert Miller and Paul Vogle for UPI, and Peter Arnett, George Esper, Ed White and Carl Robinson for the AP.

All totally dedicated and brave men. Novak was just one among others who brought their odd opinions to the forum in Washington. Stephen Hess, a one-time speechwriter for President Nixon, in discussing "the credibility of news in Washington," suggested that Washington reporters have become "catalysts rather than recorders of events..."

Does that go for the Washington police reporters; reporters who are assigned to the latest Washington murder stories; the ladies who chronicle the doings of the diplomatic corps? Hess apparently did not get around to mentioning two pretty good young "recorders of events" — Bob Woodward and Carl Bernstein, whose diligent research and reporting routed a couple dozen rapacious rascals out of the White House.

One panel, chaired by William C. Sexton of Long Island's butterfly but consistently crusading Newsday, chose as its topic: "Why Readers Hate Us — and What we can Do About It."

Nobody seemed to rise in the audience and yell, "Hey, just a minute. Somebody must love us. The latest Editor & Publisher figures show 1,768 U.S. dailies with a circulation of 61,877,197. The American Newspaper Representatives, which keeps tab on our weeklies, report 7,600 of them with a circulation of 35,892,409. And Lord only knows how many of those dailies and weeklies are avidly read by more than the original subscriber or buyer."

Probably would have been thrown out of the auditorium, and forced to spend the rest of the convention trying to find a word of truth in TRUD, Pravda, Izvestia, and the press of the People's Republic of China, Indochina, Portugal, Central and South America, and most of the rest of the world.

We've got the last, blessed free press on the planet, a press uniquely protected by the Constitution, one that is mainly manned and womaned by earnest and fair-minded reporters, and edited and published by and large by people whose sole aim in life is to win friends, attract advertisers, and survive in a time of astronomically risen production costs.

It is not Caesar's wife. It can be reproached, and frequently is. But the reproachful is under no duress to read it, if what he reads disturbs him. Let him take his nourishment from the Pabulum of Television news, which is dispensed through the sufferance of the Federal Communications Commission.

NEW YORK (AP) — The American consumer continues to give fits to marketing strategists and retailers.

Some of the best known names in merchandising are in trouble, and the list doesn't begin and end with the Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co. and W.T. Grant Co., which are losing scores of millions of dollars.

A long list of manufacturers and retailers of consumer goods find they can't get the public excited about anything, except possibly about saving whatever they can. People are "buying down." Money is piling up again in savings institutions. Savings Bond sales are high.

The group thought at one time to be the smartest of all marketers, the Detroit auto maker, finds that customers will buy only when they can drive a good bargain for themselves, which often is a losing proposition for the seller.

The cash rebate concept was thought to be another example of Detroit's genius when, earlier this year, the public crowded into automotive showrooms and helped dealers cut their inventory glut.

But, as Detroit has learned, it really doesn't take a great deal of imagination to sell products at a loss or on a margin too skimpy to support a living. And that, it appears, is one thing that rebating amounted to.

Another: Those sales made last February and March quite likely were at the expense of spring sales. That at least is the conclusion being drawn from the worst spring selling rate in about 14 years.

Once upon a time, that time being no more than 10 years ago, there was a pervasive feeling that Detroit made its market — that it decided what it wanted to do and then went out and did it, supported by promotion and hoopla.

Now Detroit recognizes it must contend with a complex, demanding, better educated consumer. A suspicious consumer, you might add; a consumer who expects nothing more than his money's worth and who discounts the hoopla.

In theory, this is a healthy situation for everyone, despite all the bleating that might accompany it. Better companies, better products and a stronger economy are the results of competition, economists tell us.

But until the sellers can convince the public that their products are of the highest quality and that to buy now means a better life for them, the entire economy seems destined to move ahead only slowly.

Oil Company Wants Break

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Charles Spahr, chairman of Standard Oil Co. of Ohio, says Congress should compensate for eliminating the 22 per cent oil depletion allowance by freeing the oil industry from price controls and other restraints.

Spahr told shareholders at the annual meeting in Cleveland Thursday first-quarter profits already are down and that best estimates at present are that taking away the depletion allowance will cost the industry $1.7 billion in 1975. But he said full impact of loss of the depletion allowance is still being calculated.

However, it is "painfully apparent," he said, "that it will undermine the oil industry's ability to generate capital needed for development of domestic energy resources unless compensating incentives, such as freeing the petroleum industry from price controls and other restraints are forthcoming."

Spahr said development of more energy cannot be accomplished without investing more capital.

"The only ways this business can generate capital are through profits and through noncash expenses such as depreciation and depletion," he said.

Facilities needed to bring crude oil from the Prudhoe Bay field on Alaska's North Slope will require an investment of about $4.4 billion, Spahr said, and Sohio has arranged for only $1.4 billion of this financing to date.

Sohio's first quarter net income was reported at $22.2 million, or 60 cents a share, down slightly from the $22.6 million, or 62 cents a share reported for the corresponding 1974 quarter.

Spahr said Sohio lost money on petroleum operations in the first quarter, and only the continued strength in nonpetroleum operations saved the situation.

Social Security Hike Scheduled For July

WASHINGTON (AP) — The administration said today about 35 million Social Security and Supplemental Security income recipients will be due an 8 per cent benefit increase in July, costing $5.7 billion in 1976.

Circleville's population rose by 300 persons as Mills Brothers Circus performers representing countries all over the world, arrived to start rehearsals for the first performance staged here before leaving on tour.

Jacqueline Porter of Scioto Township School and Donald Greenlee, Corwin St. elementary school, Circleville, were county and city spelling champs. The two seventh graders would represent their areas in the state championship in May.

A survey of the Kingston Pike was begun. The object was to reduce a hill, one-quarter mile south of Scippo Creek.

Traffic lights in Circleville were synchronized in an effort to create a steady flow of traffic through the city.

First Methodist Church of Circleville hosted an "open house" commemorating the completion of improving and redecorating the building.

"Do you have anything that would make my husband feel like cleaning out the basement?"

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

There may no longer be any reason for the busy executive, male or female, to say there is no time to exercise.

The excuse for not being able to get to the gym because it is time-consuming is understandable.

Today, however, many executives who take an in-the-office sandwich and coffee lunch are now taking advantage of a bright new idea in exercising.

Barbara Pearlman, of New York City, is an energetic enthusiast of home exercising. She has devised a new system of stretching, muscle relaxing, and warm-up exercises which she brings to the office of the busy executive.

Dozens of people working at a hectic, frenetic pace are taking advantage of her in-office exercise routines. Besides increasing the tone of muscles, there is a definite reduction of the tension that builds up during a typical office day.

Ms. Pearlman has trained exercise therapists who are now using her techniques in other parts of the country.

More and more people are directing their energies to removing the pollution that has invaded our lives.

Young people, particularly, have consolidated their energies to attack factories, power plants and garbage disposal systems that pour polluted gases and soot into our atmosphere.

The harsh, foul-smelling chemicals that affect our lungs and our hearts are no longer accepted. Community forces have become a powerful factor in removing the pollutants and preventing the mass contamination.

The efforts of youth in this direction are singularly interesting because, for the moment, they have the least at stake, from a medical point of view.

Teams of young people now report evidence of contamination of our streams, our rivers, our land, and our air. Only when legislation follows their good instinct can our earth return to its rightful heritage of freedom from pollution.

Letters To The Editor

EDITOR'S NOTE: While The Herald encourages open comments from its readers, the opinions expressed are not necessarily those of the management. Letters to the editor must be signed and should be of 300 words or less.

Dear Editor:

At the present time there is much too much of a fatalistic attitude abroad in the land. Events of the past few years have given rise to the condition. But must our crying over spilled milk prevent us from taking stock of our blessings, and by so doing, regain our pride in this land we call America — our homeland.

In taking stock we must begin with that which we are the best acquainted — the local scene and the folks we know the best.

Appearance-wise, Circleville is a beautiful town. Her streets are wide and tree-bordered. The homes that front on them speak well of their occupants, folks whose pride in their dwellings shine through in the upkeep given them.

None of that which we have described in the fore-going is a result of fatalistic thinking.

Our city fathers of yesteryear faced problems just as serious and foreboding as those we face today. The depression of the 30s was one of them. The wars that took place during Roundtown's history asked much of her people and received the ultimate support from them. The spirit of our town has prevailed up to the present and we are sure it will continue in the future.

And to those who think otherwise, we offer the following advice. As you travel up and down the streets of Circleville take a good close look at your town, seek to know her people. Respect and thank your neighbors for their contribution to the beauty of the neighborhood in which you live. Give credit to those who govern and serve you. Get the habit of dealing locally and watch your town prosper by doing so.

In conclusion and in consideration of what we have said up to this point, we see no sense in letting ourselves become casualties of fatalism. We have expounded at length on the virtues of Circleville. Many of the readers of this column can do likewise for their hometown. Their pride in their community coupled with that of all the others that make up this nation of ours, is the total that makes us what we are—a people with a strength admired around the world.

Respectfully yours,

Dear Editor:

Your recent feature article on the Pickaway County Airport and its new manager, Mr. Lee Jackson, has prompted me to write this letter.

I happened to read the article while visiting friends in Circleville. As a weekend flyer who occasionally uses an airplane for business travel, I would like to offer a few personal observations on the subject of county airports in general.

It has been said that both service and courtesy are rapidly becoming concepts of the past. It seems that this statement applies especially to small airport operations. It is often difficult, if not impossible, to get even simple services like gas and oil and your aircraft windows cleaned. It seems that many small airport operators and their employees consider transient pilots a nuisance, which must be tolerated at best and ignored if possible. The treatment a pilot can expect runs from rude to indifferent.

On a recent Saturday morning, I was flying over Pickaway County Airport en route to Chillicothe, when Mr. Jackson came on the aircraft radio and invited the "aircraft passing over Pickaway" down for a cup of coffee. I advised that I was en route to a neighboring airport to take on fuel and Mr. Jackson stated he had fuel for sale. I was surprised at this, since the airport directory lists Pickaway Airport as being unattended and as having no fuel service available. I landed and taxied to the gas pump, where I was met by Mr. Jackson. He introduced himself and escorted me into the Terminal Building. The Building appeared to be unfurnished, but Mr. Jackson found a folding chair for me and provided me with a cup of hot coffee (on the house)! While I sipped the coffee and recovered from the shock, Mr. Jackson fueled my aircraft, washed my windows (inside and out) emptied both ashtrays and checked the engine oil.

When he returned to the Terminal Building, we began a conversation which lasted almost two hours. During this time several other aircraft were "called down" for coffee, fueled and departed. All received the same service and consideration as was shown to myself. Mr. Jackson even offered to share his lunch with me!

When I finally departed, I had the feeling that my business was appreciated and that as a customer, I was important and welcome any time. I was also firmly convinced that the "small airport" would not remain "small" very long. Mr. Jackson's attitude, personality and love of aviation are bound to pay big dividends, both to the airport and the community. I will certainly "spread the word."

A Page Of Opinion

Communicating A Cure

April is the month a Cancer Crusade volunteer comes to call, same as in past years. If you were to ask, "What's new? Any nearer a cure for cancer?" the answer might be, "Yes and no. It depends on you."

That might seem a foolish reply. It's true, though.

Americans continue to die of cancer by the thousands. But more individuals than ever are being saved from cancer — one in three, whereas it was one in five 25 years ago.

There are many reasons for the upturn. Detection has improved. So have radiology, surgery and chemotherapy. But the nearest thing to a cure for cancer is communication, simple people-to-people communication.

That can start when the cancer volunteer calls to deliver a copy of the seven danger signals. If a suspicious symptom shows up, the next link in the chain of communication is a call to the family doctor. He'll take it from there.

His last word might be, "There's nothing to worry about; it's not cancer." But if it should be cancer, early detection and prompt attention provide the best means of overcoming it.

NEW YORK — From the accounts I read of the annual meeting in Washington of the nation's newspaper editors, the Shoreham-Americana Hotel headquarters was awash in mea culpas. The treatment a pilot can expect runs from rude to indifferent.

On a recent Saturday morning, I was flying over Pickaway County Airport en route to Chillicothe, when Mr. Jackson came on the aircraft radio and invited the "aircraft passing over Pickaway" down for a cup of coffee. I advised that I was en route to a neighboring airport to take on fuel and Mr. Jackson stated he had fuel for sale. I was surprised at this, since the airport directory lists Pickaway Airport as being unattended and as having no fuel service available. I landed and taxied to the gas pump, where I was met by Mr. Jackson. He introduced himself and escorted me into the Terminal Building. The Building appeared to be unfurnished, but Mr. Jackson found a folding chair for me and provided me with a cup of hot coffee (on the house)!

While I sipped the coffee and recovered from the shock, Mr. Jackson fueled my aircraft, washed my windows (inside and out) emptied both ashtrays and checked the engine oil.

When he returned to the Terminal Building, we began a conversation which lasted almost two hours. During this time several other aircraft were "called down" for coffee, fueled and departed. All received the same service and consideration as was shown to myself. Mr. Jackson even offered to share his lunch with me!

When I finally departed, I had the feeling that my business was appreciated and that as a customer, I was important and welcome any time. I was also firmly convinced that the "small airport" would not remain "small" very long. Mr. Jackson's attitude, personality and love of aviation are bound to pay big dividends, both to the airport and the community. I will certainly "spread the word."

Does it bug you to have to pay to use a public restroom? Having to pay to use a restroom is unique treatment for women only. Have you ever heard of a pay urinal for men? Also, women often have little children with them who have unpredictable kidneys and elimination habits. These are some of the comments made by Dr. Marie Pfeiffer, State Legislative Chairman for A.A.U.W. Girls, we can do something about his ridiculous habit of being charged for nature's processes. Presently there is Senate Bill 71 pending in Ohio, but it may die if women do not support it. The bill would require that half the facilities in public restrooms be free. Unfortunately, the loudest comments on the bill are from the manufacturer's who install locks on the restroom doors. They get a percentage of the profit, just for this installation. Incidentally, did you know that in some places you have to pay just to get in the restroom?

To let your senator (Oakley Collins) know how you feel (maybe you like paying) call the legislative hotline number (free) 1-800-282-0253, and give your name, county, and state briefly how you feel about Senate Bill 71, Public Restroom Facilities. Deadline Near For All Risk Crop Insurance

Local farmers are reminded that the final date to apply for the 1975 Federal Crop Insurance Corporation's (USDA) "All-Risk" crop protection for corn and soybeans is May 10th, according to Ohio Sales Supervisor, Sam Baldwin.

Since 1938 this "self-help" farm program has allowed farmers to pay small annual premiums to protect themselves against any natural, unavoidable damage to their crops. More farmers each year are recognizing the importance of this "All-Risk" crop protection as the investment in growing crops increases yearly to record levels.

As a result of last year's extensive crop damage due to heavy spring rains, a summer drought and an early fall freeze, many more lenders are now recommending the use of Federal Crop Insurance as collateral for farm operating loans.

Offering an ever-changing program to keep pace with today's farmer FCIC has made available a 15 per cent increase in corn coverages for early planting. In addition the planting dates have been changed somewhat in most areas to allow for adverse planting conditions such as during 1974.

Due to the increased interest in FCIC's program this year and the limited time available for FCIC representatives to explain the details, farmers who want to apply for this "All-Risk" crop protection are urged to contact the FCIC office at 27½ South Detroit St., Xenia, Ohio 45385; phone 513-372-5001.

Are you coming to the Extension Homemakers' Countywide Meeting? It's this Monday evening, at the Good Shepherd United Methodist Church, 310 E. Main Street, Circleville. I suggest you get there early (6:45) to enjoy the tasty table of pork dishes prepared by the homemakers for recipes provided by the Pork Council. The Kitchen Band will play welcome music at 7:15 p.m. The homemakers have planned really funny skits, have a bag of goodies for each person attending, and a lot of door prizes including gift certificates, and lovely pig-shaped cutting boards made by Mae Ross. In looking through an old record book, I found the first spring homemakers meeting noted in 1947 "planned in order that we might all become better acquainted and also get something worthwhile from the program." The homemakers have planned a good program to continue this tradition. The public is invited.

Because of the greatest response to the homemakers tour to Zanesville on May 6 we will be taking two buses. Cost for the trip is $7.50, not including food. We leave at 8 a.m. and return by 6:30 p.m. There are only seven seats left, so if you plan to accompany us, be sure to register at the Extension Office.

Until last year, we were advised that lemon juice added to tomatoes would raise the acid level enough for safe canning. Because of new developments in the tomato canning research, it was found that not even lemon juice will safely raise the acid level in some hybrid varieties. There is a white powdered citric acid (crystalline citric acid monohydrate) available in drug stores which can be added to canned tomatoes of all varieties to raise the acid level. It is added in the amount of ¼ teaspoon per pint. Many of you say this wasn't done before, but some of the tomatoes now available were never around before, either. Our grandmothers were really home chemists sometimes, too, and we didn't know it. Have you ever read an old "home formula" manual?

Deficiency Payment Not Needed For Corn

"It will not be necessary to make deficiency payment for 1974 crop corn," Roy Dunkle, chairman of Pickaway County ASCS Committee said. The national weighted average price received by producers for the first five months of the 1974 marketing year was $3.22 per bushel for corn. "Since this is in excess of the 'target' price of $1.38 for corn, there will be no deficiency payment," Dunkle said.

The Agriculture and Consumer Protection Act of 1973 provides that deficiency payments shall be made to producers when the national weighted average price received by farmers for the first five months of the marketing year — October - February for corn — is less than the established target price for this crop.

INSECT ACTIVITY

Warm, sunny spring weather stimulates insect activity. Already there are termites swarming, clover mites on the move, millipedes crawling into homes, and clothes moths and carpet beetles beginning their spring feast on fabrics.

Ohio Cooperative Extension Service bulletins covering all these pests and others are available through your local County Extension Office.

Ask your county agent for copies.

TOMATOES

Shortly now, you'll be setting a few tomato plants. And for those of you who are not up on varieties, keep in mind that the letters following the variety name mean something. For example, there's Marglobe (F), Better Boy (VFN), and Burpee (VF), to name a few. Just what do the letters stand for?

The letter (D) following a variety name means "determinate vine type (self-topping, bushy, and non-vining)" which means these varieties should not be pruned; (V) means "verticillium wilt resistant;" (F) means "fusarium wilt resistant;" and (N) means "nematode resistant." Also, there are early, midseason and late varieties.

So, when buying plants, look for those tipoffs of good plants that will save you time and problems later. If a flat or pack of tomato plants does not give the variety, resistance indications and season (early, midseason or late), ask the seller. Plants recommended for Ohio have been tried and proven for conditions in Ohio. Don't settle for anything less.

MIDGET VEGETABLES

If you're one of those "green thumbs" who like to try new hobbies, you might be interested in midget vegetables. Following are some varieties of different vegetables you may look for at your garden centers, although they may not be available.

Bean — Dwarf Horticultural Bush Shell; Cabbage — Dwarf Morden, Little Leaguer and Baby Head; Cantaloupe — Minnesota Midget; Carrots — Tiny Sweet, Short'n Sweet and Little Finger; Cucumber — Cherokee, Little Minnie, Patio-plk and Tiny Dill (New Hamp); Eggplant — Morden Midget; Lettuce — Tom Thumb (head lettuce, butterhead type), and Butter Crunch; Peas — Mighty Midget; Squash — Gold Nugget; Sweet Corn — Golden Midget, Midget Hybrid and White Midget; Tomatoes — Patio Hybrid, Tiny Tim and Small Fry; and Watermelon — Lollipop (yellow and red), Little Midget and Golden Midget.

If local garden centers do not have midget vegetables varieties, try your seed catalogs.

New Boston Given Development Funds

NEW BOSTON, Ohio (AP) — The first community in Ohio to receive federal funds for community development under a new law is the Village of New Boston, the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development announced.

Farm Trade Not Hurt By Export Approval Program

"The recently discontinued program of voluntary prior approval for some agricultural exports did not hinder the free flow of commodities into export channels," according to a U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) official.

David L. Hume, administrator of the USDA's Foreign Agricultural Service (FAS) said, "The prior approval program operated very well in contrast to the negative impact we could have had with mandatory export controls. It did not harm the reputation of the U.S. as a dependable supplier. And, with the exception of the surprise Soviet orders of corn and wheat in October, there were no contract cancellations under the program."

"Last fall, due to adverse weather resulting in reduced harvests, there was strong pressure exerted to impose embargoes, harsh mandatory controls, to protect U.S. farm supplies for domestic needs," Hume recalled. "Such mandatory controls would be disliked by foreign buyers. They would complicate trade and produce more disadvantages than advantages. It is important to avoid any such controls."

"Because of these pressures, Secretary of Agriculture Earl L. Butz initiated the voluntary prior approval program on exports of wheat, feed grain, soybean and soybean meals last October 7. Under this program, private U.S. exporters were asked to make certain of their export sales and destination changes subject to USDA approval before completing sales," Hume said.

Secretary Butz ended the program on March 6, after it had been in effect only six months.

"Initially, the program applied to transactions involving 50,000 tons of commodities, or more, per day to a country, or which accumulated to 100,000 tons or more in a week. Later these quantities were doubled. At no time did the program apply to lower cargo quantities.

"Although domestic supplies are low, they are not at emergency levels, and farmers are benefitting from continued large exports — estimated at a record $22 billion in the year ending June 30.

"The export sales reporting laws that continue in effect have been operating very well. They were enacted in 1973, and provide that exporters file sales information weekly, or monthly, if statutory conditions are met. The USDA publishes this information in compilation form," Hume concluded.

Congress Eyes Housing Bill To Save Homes Of Jobless

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Senate-House conference will resolve differing versions of a bill aimed at insuring that hundreds of thousands of jobless workers don't lose their homes along with their salaries.

The Senate voted Thursday to provide loans to unemployed homeowners of up to $300 a month for as long as three years. The provision was similar to one passed earlier by the House to provide loans up to $250 a month over a two-year span.

The conference is to begin meeting in the next few days on the bills. The Senate's antirefusal provision was added to a bill designed to help families buy homes by subsidizing mortgage rates at 6 per cent.

Backers of the antirefusal provision said it would help as many as 300,000 families who now face losing their homes because of their inability to meet mortgage payments. Supporters also said the mortgage subsidy provisions would fight the recession by creating some 400,000 new housing starts and up to 800,000 new jobs.

However, Sen. John G. Tower, R-

Tex., ranking Republican on the Senate Banking Committee, warned that if Congress adopts a measure like the bill passed by the Senate, President Ford surely will veto it.

Tower said he doubted whether Congress would override such a veto, but Banking Committee Chairman William Proxmire, D-Wis., said he was certain it would.

Some senators, pointing to the depressed housing industry and its 18 per cent national jobless rate, asked Tower to urge Ford to sign the measure into law. But Tower denounced it as government interference in the private sector.

Sen. Harrison A. Williams, D-N.J., said high interest rates have been in large measure responsible for the depression in the housing industry which has in turn caused the recession to deepen.

Williams said the interest-subsidy section of the bill would provide 6 per cent mortgage loans to middle-income home buyers. The rate would increase over the next three years until it

Ford Tops Reagan

NEW YORK (AP) — Republicans and independents give President Ford a 30-23 margin over former California Gov. Ronald Reagan as the favorite for the 1976 presidency, a Harris poll says.

This is the smallest lead an incumbent President has received in a Harris survey since a period in the administration of the late Lyndon B. Johnson.

Fifteen per cent said they could not vote for Ford even if he were nominated; 18 per cent said they could not vote for Reagan.

Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller was the choice of 9 per cent of those queried, and 32 per cent said they could not vote for him.

The 77th annual inspection of Circleville Chapter 90, Order of the Eastern Star, was held Tuesday evening in Masonic Temple. Small baskets of lilies of the valley and forsythia were used to decorate the chapter room where approximately 140 guests and members were assembled. While the officers formed the entrance court Joanne Pettit sang "Sound Of Music." The officers then assumed their stations.

After the ritualistic opening Elaine Bowman, worthy matron, read a selection entitled "Memo To Musicians." She then instructed Betsy French, the conductress, to present the distinguished guests who were welcomed and invited to the East. Grand officers present were Donna Junk, deputy grand matron, Concord Chapter, Frankfort; Vera Thornton, PGM Chillicothe Chapter; Marie L. Hamilton, PGM Circleville; and grand representatives: Joann Lemley, Kingston, Puerto Rico; Sarah Gail Barbee, Chillicothe, Vt.; Virginia L. Moats, Bloomington, Texas.

Circleville corps of officers presented the initiatory ceremony conferring the degrees of the order on two candidates, Sandra Foster and Carol Younkin. During the intermission the chorus comprised of Doris Cloud, Mary Lou Peters, Joanne Pettit, Gladys Robinson, Rosemary Horn, and Chestora Peters, accompanied at the piano by Pauline Hundley, sang "Let There Be Music" the theme chosen for the year by the worthy matron. At the conclusion of the initiation Byron LeMay, associate patron, presented each candidate with a small white Bible reminding them that Eastern Star is based on lessons from that book.

Lawrence and Mary Johnson were presented at the altar to receive their 50 year pins. Miss Hamilton presented the pins and reviewed some of the activities which took place during their years of membership. Their daughter Carol Ann Bowling fastened the pins on each of them before they were escorted to the East.

Invitations were read by the secretary to attend inspections at Concord Chapter, Frankfort, May 6th and Royal Chapter, Washington C. H. on May 12th.

Orange Angel Pie

Repeated by request.

2 egg yolks

7 tablespoons sugar

¼ cup orange juice

1 tablespoon lemon juice

Baked Meringue Shell, see below

1 pint heavy cream

1 teaspoon vanilla

Membrane-free sections from 3 large navel oranges, drained

In the top of a double boiler slightly beat egg yolks; add 6 tablespoons of the sugar, the orange juice and lemon juice. Cook, stirring constantly, over boiling water until thickened (like heavy cream) — about 7 minutes. Cover tightly and refrigerate. A few hours before serving, spread custard over bottom of Baked Meringue Shell. Whip the cream until stiff, adding the remaining 1 tablespoon sugar and the vanilla; using ¾ of the whipped cream, spread some over custard and remainder over top edge and sides of meringue shell. Refrigerate filled shell and remaining whipped cream. At serving time, arrange orange sections over cream in meringue shell; garnish with remaining whipped cream. Makes 6 servings.

Baked Meringue Shell: Spread a piece of wax paper over a large cookie sheet. Using a 9-inch layer cake pan as a guide, with the tip of a small sharp knife, mark a 9-inch circle on the wax paper. Beat 2 egg whites and ¼ teaspoon cream of tartar until whites hold soft peaks; gradually beat in ½ cup superfine sugar, continuing to beat if necessary until whites hold stiff straight peaks. Spread the meringue over the surface of the marked circle, forming a ridge around the edge that is 1 inch high and ¾ inch wide. Bake in a pre-heated 225-degree oven 2 hours. With a wide spatula remove at once to wire rack to cool. May be stored in a tightly covered container for 2 days before filling.

3 Lebanon Employees Are Rehired

LEBANON, Ohio (AP)—Three of 18 city workers fired during a strike have been rehired at their old jobs by the City of Lebanon.

The workers were fired under Ohio's antistrike law applying to public employees during a four month walkout.

The workers, all employed at the city power plant and waterworks, walked out in November demanding recognition of their membership in the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers Union, AFL-CIO.

Picketing stopped March 1 when Warren County Common Pleas Court visiting Judge Fred B. Cramer issued a gag order halting comment from all sides while the court supervised negotiations.

Cramer's order also banned mass picketing of the city business district by the Ohio AFL-CIO.

Officials noted that the workers are permitted to re-apply for their jobs once fired, under the provisions of the Ferguson Act. However, the employees, Larry Wood, Tommy Bond and John Washum are forbidden pay raises for a year, including the 10.2 per cent hike voted by the city during the walkout, a spokesman for the city said.

DECLARATION—"It's the Declaration of Independence, signed, sealed and delivered," father (Ed Herel) says to Buddy (Rene Saxton) in the Roundtown Players comedy, "Come Blow Your Horn." The play will open Thursday for a three-night run on the Memorial Hall stage with an 8:30 p.m. curtain time.

Stage's Pond Project Wins Sears Award

Miss Miriam Weaver, chairman of the campaign to save Stage's pond, accepted on behalf of the Pickaway County Garden Club and the Columbus Regional Garden Club $200 and a bronze plaque awarded by Sears, Chicago, Ill.

The award for the best Ohio Environmental Improvement Project of the year was made at the convention of the Garden Clubs of Ohio at Atwood Lake Lodge, stage's Pond was the state's entry in the Sears national EIP contest.

The national award winner will be announced later. Miss Weaver is conservation chairman of State Garden Clubs of Ohio Inc. She is supervisor of the bookkeeping department of the Second National Bank where the plaque will be on display.

Through the efforts of garden club women throughout the state, $28,000 was raised to buy 123 acres, including the 30-acre glacial formed pond. An additional 30 acres of woodland are under option.

The pond was left by Ohio's last glacier between 14,000 and 17,000 years ago and is a rare fauna area and bird sanctuary.

It is operated as a natural preserve under the auspices of the Ohio Department of Natural Resources. Nature conservancy Inc. assisted with the purchase of the pond, providing $47,000.

Our main concern this week is the current Cancer Crusade and as chairman of the territory west of the Scioto River it naturally follows that I am plugging for generous contributions from everyone in Wayne, Deercreek, Jackson, Scioto, Monroe, Muhlenberg, Darby and Perry Townships and the Clark's Lake, New Holland, Williamsport, Atlanta, Darbyville, Five Points and Derby villages.

Folks we are very thankful to for accepting responsibility in their area are: Mrs. Wendell Neff, Muhlenberg; Dale Smith, Monroe Twp.; Sue (Mrs. Marvin) Rhoades, Jackson Twp.; Juanita Thomas, Shady Acres Trailer Court; Joyce Arledge, New Holland; Rita Long, Perry Twp.; Kaye Hott, Scioto Twp.;

Cindy Hamman and FHA, Williamsport; Vicki Thompson, Kim Hastings, Janet Schleich Wright, Cindy Schleich, Kathy Schleich, T-Bird Graffis, Shirley Thompson, Beth Sa de Souza, Deercreek Twp.;

Miriam Fraim, Darby Twp.; Mrs. Herman Scott, Clark's Lake; and Robert McCabe, Wayne Twp.

Everyone of all ages should make plans now to participate in the upcoming May 17 Cancer Bike-A-Thon which has proved to be a very popular event since its inception several years ago. Bike-A-Thon is a trademark of the Cancer Society and should not be confused with other bike events with similar names.

Weight losing contest or no weight losing contest it was impossible to resist eating to my eyebrows a big platter full of dandelion greens this past Sunday. The greens are a yearly spring offering from my mother (Mildred Hardman of Chillicothe). Oh, wow! were they ever super delicious and how I do look forward to mother bringing up a "mess of greens" each year just as she did Sunday afternoon.

Other Sunday callers (and all bringing food, by the way) were Bill and Florence Easterday of Circleville and Norma and Nancy Mace of "south" Williamsport. Nancy was home for the weekend as a respite from her studies at nursing school in Springfield.

Across the street our neighbors Harry and Emma Puffinbarger were delighted to have Emma's daughter Margaret (Mrs. Paul) Fulton come down from her upper Arlington home along with a couple of "Peg's" friends and spend Sunday here.

On the other corner our neighbors

Luther and Hattie Anderson welcomed son Creighton Anderson in from Houston, Texas. He will be here for a few days adding a helping hand because of his father's serious illness.

Floyd and Frances Anderson Thompson have been devoting much of their time here during the past several weeks. The Texan Mr. Anderson was met at Columbus Airport on Tuesday by Marvie baby Thompson.

Grandmothers are well known to be good cooks and also to dote on their grandchildren and for LuAnn Howell it was double the pleasure recently when her grandmother Mrs. Dorothy Phelps, undisputed queen of delicious food, honored LuAnn on her seventh birthday with luncheon at her own Wardell Party Home.

Big brother Thad Howell was present to help share the birthday cake, too.

LuAnn is the dark-eyed doll of Jim and Betty Howell.

They have indulged in trading just about anything and everything so if you have "a-hankerin'" to make a deal or two why not stop by and see the "fellers". I wonder — what about trading stamps? Hmm!

Being a rural community, our men are tilling the soil and the lady folk are keeping the soup kettle simmering on the back burner these days and not doing a whole lot of visiting.

GM's 'Motorgate' Probe Still Secret

DETROIT (AP) — General Motors has refused to shed much light on a secret "Motorgate" episode in which many salaried workers at its large Chevrolet office in New York State were dismissed abruptly.

Altogether, about three dozen Chevrolet workers in the Northeast were fired "for violating company policies," including the acceptance of gifts from dealers.

The secret GM probe began 15 months ago after the murder of a Chevrolet Division area service manager. A Boston area Chevrolet dealership service manager has been charged with the murder.

F. James MacDonald, a GM executive vice president, refused to tell reporters Thursday what policies the workers had violated.

Nor would he discuss the warranty fraud allegations in Boston which led to grand jury indictments alleging fraud by Chevrolet dealer R. Gordon Butler in Lowell, Mass., and service manager George Edgerly.

Butler and Edgerly allegedly were involved in cheating GM by charging for warranty work never performed. Edgerly is accused of killing Chevrolet's Francis Smith, who was shot to death the same day he checked warranty violations at the Butler dealership.

Both accused men contend they are innocent of the charges.

MacDonald said GM began investigating its New York office as a result of the killing. But he insisted that firings in Bethpage, N.Y. — and later at Tarrytown, N.Y., Detroit, and in Boston — were not related to warranty fraud.

Though MacDonald would not discuss particulars, it was reported that the New York employees were taking gifts from car dealers, possibly in return for favors. GM policy forbids employees from receiving more than nominal gifts from dealers, who may be seeking favoritism to get a better stock of best-selling cars. Fired workers said they do not know why they got the ax, although some said they have been accepting gifts, such as free car service, from dealers. MacDonald said the investigation, labeled by one dismissed Chevrolet worker as "Motorgate" because of the company's reluctance to discuss particulars, has ended.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Wife's Forthcoming Facelift

DEAR ABBY: My husband is a physician (G.P.) and ours is a good marriage. But like everyone else, I have a problem.

For the last two years, I have been wanting to get a facelift, but my husband says, "If you get a facelift, I'll look like your father, so please forget it."

Abby, can you imagine a man being so vain as to deprive his wife of a facelift because he doesn't want her to look younger than he?

(He says, "If you put on a little weight, those wrinkles in your face will fill out, and you won't need any plastic surgery." Isn't that a ridiculous way for a doctor to talk, knowing that my weight is perfect for my height?)

The plastic surgeon is tops and says he would gladly do it for me, but not unless I get my husband's permission.

I am a year younger than my husband, but I look older because I am prematurely wrinkled. I hate to look in the mirror. What should I do?

PRUNE FACE

DEAR PRUNE FACE: You have three options: (1) Spend the rest of your life dodging mirrors and hating it. (2) Find a plastic surgeon who will give you a facelift regardless of what your husband thinks. (3) Make your husband realize that he is a selfish, egotistical little boy, and get him to change his mind.

DEAR ABBY: The people in our office refer to our boss as a "ladies' man." We are having a difference of opinion as to what that means.

Would you say that a "ladies' man" is a man who is interested in a lot of ladies?

CURIOUS

DEAR CURIOUS: No. A ladies' man is a man who has a lot of ladies interested in HIM.

DEAR ABBY: I have a problem that no one can answer for me, so I'm asking you. Can you get married if you aren't baptized?

I wasn't baptized, and I have a neighbor who is a good Catholic. She asked me one day if I was baptized, and I told her no. Well, right away she started calling me an animal and all that. Then she told me if I wasn't baptized, I couldn't get married.

Abby, is it true that if you aren't baptized, you can't get married?

NOT BAPTIZED

DEAR NOT: I am informed by the Lutheran Church (Missouri Synod, Minnesota South District Office) that there is no stipulation in its religion that a person must be baptized before he can be married in the Lutheran Church.

Mechanic's Lien Statute Attacked

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A state law which sometimes causes homeowners to pay twice for building their homes was attacked in a Senate committee on Thursday.

Homeowners asked the Senate Judiciary Committee to change the "mechanics' lien" law, which they say now encourages homebuilders to cheat home buyers.

Mechanics' liens are used by workmen to insure they are paid. The are filed against property, and workmen can later foreclose on the property if they don't receive payment.

Homeowners and consumer lawyers told the committee that in practice, the liens keep fly-by-night contractors in business and are subject to great abuse.

Under present law, they said, a homeowner can pay a general contractor to build a home. But if the general contractor doesn't pay his subcontractor for the work, it is the homeowner, rather than the general contractor, who is held liable for the unpaid bills.

Robert Hofinger, a Cambridge engineer, said he found liens for $8,000 against his property after he had paid his contractor $46,000 to build the home. Under law, the house can be seized and sold by the unpaid subcontractors.

Hofinger said he will not pay the bills.

Original Marysville Cabins Restored

MARYSVILLE, Ohio (AP) — Retired builder Ellsworth Ohnsman is restoring old log cabins to resemble the original Marysville which was founded in 1819.

Ohnsman, who serves as bi-centennial chairman for the area, lives in one of the homes he rebuilt. He launched the project in 1970 and hopes to have most of it completed by Independence Day 1976.

Marysville had five cabins, a barn and blacksmith shop when the community was founded.

Witnesses Push Amendment Allowing Prayer In Schools

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Contending that the U.S. Supreme Court decision on school prayer has encouraged immorality and crime, witnesses urged a Senate committee Thursday to approve a resolution calling for a constitutional amendment allowing voluntary school prayers.

Ministers, women's organizations and veterans' groups appeared before the Senate Judiciary Committee in support of a resolution asking Congress to propose the amendment.

About 20 witnesses told the committee that the court decision was wrong.

"I believe God was offended by what the Supreme Court did," said the Rev. Frank R. Hamblen, pastor of the Calvary Bible Church in Lima. "I believe the blessing of God is upon this resolution."

The Rev. Mr. Hamblen said the court "really decided on another religion, namely atheism. It is now legal to use the name of God in vain, but not in prayer."

The witnesses tied the court's ruling to moral decline, increasing crime and lack of discipline among children.

"I'm anxious to see our nation return to God," said the Rev. Joseph E. Lewis of Middletown, representing the Trinity Baptist Temple and the Christian Schools of Ohio.

"We thank God for something like this being sponsored," the Rev. Mr. Lewis said. "The overwhelming majority of your constituents are in favor of this action."

The resolution calls upon Congress to propose a constitutional amendment allowing voluntary prayer in schools.

Article V of the Constitution requires Congress to propose amendments after receiving applications from two-thirds of the states. A spokesman for the U.S. House Judiciary Committee in Washington, however, said no states have filed petitions in the past two years.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Wife's Forthcoming Facelift

DEAR ABBY: My husband is a physician (G.P.) and ours is a good marriage. But like everyone else, I have a problem.

For the last two years, I have been wanting to get a facelift, but my husband says, "If you get a facelift, I'll look like your father, so please forget it."

Abby, can you imagine a man being so vain as to deprive his wife of a facelift because he doesn't want her to look younger than he?

(He says, "If you put on a little weight, those wrinkles in your face will fill out, and you won't need any plastic surgery." Isn't that a ridiculous way for a doctor to talk, knowing that my weight is perfect for my height?)

The plastic surgeon is tops and says he would gladly do it for me, but not unless I get my husband's permission.

I am a year younger than my husband, but I look older because I am prematurely wrinkled. I hate to look in the mirror. What should I do?

PRUNE FACE

DEAR PRUNE FACE: You have three options: (1) Spend the rest of your life dodging mirrors and hating it. (2) Find a plastic surgeon who will give you a facelift regardless of what your husband thinks. (3) Make your husband realize that he is a selfish, egotistical little boy, and get him to change his mind.

DEAR ABBY: The people in our office refer to our boss as a "ladies' man." We are having a difference of opinion as to what that means.

Would you say that a "ladies' man" is a man who is interested in a lot of ladies?

CURIOS

DEAR CURIOS: No. A ladies' man is a man who has a lot of ladies interested in him.

DEAR ABBY: I have a problem that no one can answer for me, so I'm asking you. Can you get married if you aren't baptized?

I wasn't baptized, and I have a neighbor who is a good Catholic. She asked me one day if I was baptized, and I told her no. Well, right away she started calling me an animal and all that. Then she told me if I wasn't baptized, I couldn't get married.

Abby, is it true that if you aren't baptized, you can't get married?

NOT BAPTIZED

DEAR NOT: I am informed by the Lutheran Church (Missouri Synod, Minnesota South District Office) that there is no stipulation in its religion that a person must be baptized before he can be married in the Lutheran Church.

Mechanic's Lien Statute Attacked

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A state law which sometimes causes homeowners to pay twice for building their homes was attacked in a Senate committee on Thursday.

Homeowners asked the Senate Judiciary Committee to change the "mechanics' lien" law, which they say now encourages homebuilders to cheat home buyers.

Mechanics' liens are used by workmen to insure they are paid. The are filed against property, and workmen can later foreclose on the property if they don't receive payment.

Homeowners and consumer lawyers told the committee that in practice, the liens keep fly-by-night contractors in business and are subject to great abuse.

Under present law, they said, a homeowner can pay a general contractor to build a home. But if the general contractor doesn't pay his subcontractor for the work, it is the homeowner, rather than the general contractor, who is held liable for the unpaid bills.

Robert Hofinger, a Cambridge engineer, said he found liens for $8,000 against his property after he had paid his contractor $46,000 to build the home. Under law, the house can be seized and sold by the unpaid subcontractors.

Hofinger said he will not pay the bills.

Original Marysville Cabins Restored

MARYSVILLE, Ohio (AP) — Retired builder Ellsworth Ohnsman is restoring old log cabins to resemble the original Marysville which was founded in 1819.

Ohnsman, who serves as bi-centennial chairman for the area, lives in one of the homes he rebuilt. He launched the project in 1970 and hopes to have most of it completed by Independence Day 1976.

Marysville had five cabins, a barn and blacksmith shop when the community was founded.

The Blue And Gold

Club Presents Seminar Attended 'Ah Wilderness' By FFA

NOLAN HINES AND DAVE WARNER

IN 'AH WILDERNESS'

By MARK WILSON
And DEBBIE MURRAY

This spring, the drama club will present the play, "Ah, Wilderness!" When the play came out in 1933, it was acclaimed as a great play.

The New York American wrote, "It is a comfort and a treat, this 'Ah, Wilderness!' I, for one, found it paradise."

The New York Daily Mirror wrote of it, "The Charm of it, the tenderness and the comfort that it offers. A blending so lovely and so compelling that one of us, unaccustomed to certain abundance of delight at one time, left the playhouse filled to the throat, so deeply does the new play impress."

The play, written by Eugene O'Neill, is once again hitting the stage. It is being put on by students from Teays Valley High School. The play, with its 4th of July setting, is keeping up with the current Bicentennial spirit going around America. It deals with a 16-year-old boy's first love and the many problems encountered in it.

The role of Richard, the 16-year-old, is played by Ken Lyon. Ken states that, "Though the role play is difficult and there is a lot of hard work involved in it, I have thoroughly enjoyed the opportunity to act."

Steve Gregory plays the role of David McComber. He thinks the play is coming along nicely, and everything is still on schedule.

The play is directed by Charles Kearns. Joni Little is the student director. There will be three showings. The first will be May 9 at Scioto Elementary School. From there, the cast will travel to Ashville Elementary School on May 10.

The last performance will be given on May 16 at Walnut Elementary School. The play is open to the public.

Tickets for the play can be purchased through members of the cast at school.

The manner in which O'Neill lifts the commonplaces of family life into a poignantly interesting story is a triumph even for this master dramatist, and all parents and children will find themselves at home when they witness O'Neill's charming play, "Ah, Wilderness!"

Miss Beattie Attends Institute

By JENNI NESSER

Every year, the Circleville Rotary Club sponsors one senior from each high school in the county to attend the World Affairs Institute in Cincinnati. This year's delegate from Teays Valley is Cindy Beattie.

Over one thousand other students from Indiana, Kentucky, Ohio, and West Virginia participated in the 29th annual World Affairs Institute on April 4 and 5.

The theme for the 1975 Institutes was "This Era of Interdependence—Three Case Histories of How It Is Changing Our Lives."

Discussion covered three topics: food, agriculture, and population pressures; dilemmas of economic development; and energy sources, commodities, and resources.

Ranking authorities from various countries took part in discussions, and engaged in informal question periods with the students.

The Institute provided a unique opportunity for outstanding students to understand a transforming factor in today's world, and the vital policy questions consequently facing our nation.

about to leave the nest," the survey found.

"The best of all possible worlds, for most Americans, is to be newly married and not have children," Campbell said.

Timber Industry Gains Ground

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — The Northwest timber industry, suffering its worst economic blow ever, is showing a slow sign of improvement after a 1½-year slide.

But the timber operators who supply 65 per cent of the nation's lumber and plywood are not optimistic about the future because of modest price hikes this week, the first in 18 months.

Many have been severely hurt by the poor market, a lack of profit and forced mill closures. They view the price increases as a fluke and they remain bitter over a situation they believe was caused by the government.

Crow's Publications of Portland, which publishes timber industry newsletters and price lists, said half-inch plywood sheathing has risen 11.9 per cent to $134 per 1,000 square feet from last week's record low of $118. And the cost of random length 2-by-4s was up 14.8 per cent, to $135 per 1,000 board-feet from last week's $115.

Crow's editor Robert Smith, who talks regularly with operators throughout the industry, said in an interview, "These are substantial increases and certainly everybody is thankful. But I don't detect any feeling of permanence. I think most of them are expecting another dip. This may be the beginning of the turnaround we've been looking for. But we're not off the pad yet. This industry is still in a full-blown depression, the worst I've ever seen."

The timber industry is tightly linked to and largely at the mercy of the home building industry, which is dependent on the cost and availability of home loans.

Late in 1973, the Federal Reserve Board crippled available mortgage money, in an anti-inflation effort, by increasing interest on money that the Fed loans to savings and loan institutions. The increases were passed on to the borrowers.

At the same time, the Fed increased interest on federal reserve notes and reduced their minimum denomination, making it possible for small investors to buy notes of as little as $1,000 at 10 per cent interest, nearly twice that paid by savings banks.

The result was major withdrawals from savings banks, which depleted the supply of money available for home loans.

The drop and other factors forced potential new home buyers out of the market. The desire to buy was there; the means were not.

New home starts, the barometer of the building industry, plummeted from 2 million in 1972 to just over 1 million in 1974.

The effect on the timber industry was immediate and disastrous: lumber and plywood mills began to cut back operations and lay off workers. Many mills shut down and remained closed for long periods.

In addition to the price hike, there has been another sign of improvement. Timber industry unemployment in Oregon, which hit an all-time high of 26.2 per cent last January, was down to 22 per cent in March, still one of the highest in the nation.

"We're still not anywhere near the production level this industry is capable of," said Nate Coleman, president of Lane Plywood, Inc., Eugene, Ore. "These price increases are the result of spring buying which would occur even to satisfy a small amount of demand. Big Trade Surplus Reported In March

WASHINGTON (AP) — Oil imports dropped last month to an even lower level than during the Arab oil embargo, giving the United States a record surplus in its balance of foreign trade, the government reported today.

The Commerce Department said the surplus amounted to $1.4 billion in March, the second monthly surplus in a row. February's surplus was $91 million. The figures left the nation with a $2 billion surplus so far this year.

Commerce said the major factor in the improvement was a $571 million drop in the value of oil imported into the country. The oil imports amounted to 118.7 million barrels. That compared to 161.3 million barrels a year ago when the Arab oil embargo had its most severe impact.

Commerce said the value of the nation's exports slipped in March by eight-tenths of 1 per cent. But imports dropped even more sharply, by 6.8 per cent.

Exports of motor vehicles were up by $65 million. Chemical, tobacco, fertilizer and computer exports also increased.

But exports of civilian and military aircraft dropped by $123.8 million. Exports of wheat, corn, animal feeds, cotton and metal working machinery also dropped.

The export slippage was more than offset by lower imports of petroleum, non-ferrous metals, sugar, newsprint and other items. Imports of motor vehicles, iron ore and non-electrical machinery climbed.

The government began keeping track of its trade accounts on a different basis this year, using the actual prices which company subsidiaries charge their parent firms rather than the actual value of goods.

Thus, the current figures are not comparable with past years. But Commerce said that, computed on the old basis, the trade surplus would have been $1.3 billion, surpassing February's $879 million record.

Club Presents 'Ah Wilderness'

NOLAN HINES AND DAVE WARNER

IN 'AH WILDERNESS'

By MARK WILSON
And DEBBIE MURRAY
This spring, the drama club will present the play, "Ah, Wilderness!" When the play came out in 1933, it was acclaimed as a great play.

The New York American wrote, "It is a comfort and a treat, this 'Ah, Wilderness!' I, for one, found it paradise."

The New York Daily Mirror wrote of it, "The Charm of it, the tenderness and the comfort that it offers. A blending so lovely and so compelling that one of us, unaccustomed to certain abundance of delight at one time, left the playhouse filled to the throat, so deeply does the new play impress."

The play, written by Eugene O'Neill, is once again hitting the stage. It is being put on by students from Teays Valley High School. The play, with its 4th of July setting, is keeping up with the current Bicentennial spirit going around America. It deals with a 16-year-old boy's first love and the many problems encountered in it.

The role of Richard, the 16-year-old, is played by Ken Lyon. Ken states that, "Though the role play is difficult and there is a lot of hard work involved in it, I have thoroughly enjoyed the opportunity to act."

Steve Gregory plays the role of David McComber. He thinks the play is coming along nicely, and everything is still on schedule.

The play is directed by Charles Kearns. Joni Little is the student director. There will be three showings. The first will be May 9 at Scioto Elementary School. From there, the cast will travel to Ashville Elementary School on May 10.

The last performance will be given on May 16 at Walnut Elementary School. The play is open to the public. Tickets for the play can be purchased through members of the cast at school.

University Survey Finds Married Persons Happier

CHICAGO (AP) — Married people in the United States are happier than singles despite reports to the contrary, according to a University of Michigan psychologist.

"We find that married Americans are far happier and more satisfied with their lives than singles are, in spite of national mumbblings and grumbblings about the tired institution of matrimony," writes Dr. Angus Campbell in the May issue of Psychology Today.

He and two colleagues, Phillip Converse and William Rodgers, recently surveyed 2,164 adults across the country, asking what they think about the quality of their lives and how their opinions have changed over the years.

"Fewer than 10 per cent (of the married) described their lives in sour terms — boring, miserable, lonely, empty, useless — and far more than half think their lives are worthwhile, full, hopeful, interesting, and other happy positives," Campbell reported.

"All of the married groups — men and women, over 30 and under, with children and without — reported higher feelings of satisfaction and general good feelings about their lives than all of the unmarried groups — the single, divorced, or widowed."

Of the single groups, women of all ages were found to be happier and more satisfied than men, Campbell said.

Campbell reported that having children "is a mixed experience. The pater of little feet aggravates as well as delights."

Once a couple has children, "reports of happiness and satisfaction drop to average, not to rise again significantly until their children are grown and chased through members of the cast at school.

The manner in which O'Neill lifts the commonplace of family life into a poignantly interesting story is a triumph even for this master dramatist, and all parents and children will find themselves at home when they witness O'Neill's charming play, "Ah, Wilderness!"

Miss Beattie Attends Institute

By JENNI NESSER
Every year, the Circleville Rotary Club sponsors one senior from each high school in the county to attend the World Affairs Institute in Cincinnati. This year's delegate from Teays Valley is Cindy Beattie.

Over one thousand other students from Indiana, Kentucky, Ohio, and West Virginia participated in the 29th annual World Affairs Institute on April 4 and 5.

The theme for the 1975 Institutes was "This Era of Interdependence—Three Case Histories of How It Is Changing Our Lives."

Discussion covered three topics: food, agriculture, and population pressures; dilemmas of economic development; and energy sources, commodities, and resources.

Ranking authorities from various countries took part in discussions, and engaged in informal question periods with the students.

The Institute provided a unique opportunity for outstanding students to understand a transforming factor in today's world, and the vital policy questions consequently facing our nation.

"The best of all possible worlds, for most Americans, is to be newly married and not have children," Campbell said.

Timber Industry Gains Ground

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — The Northwest timber industry, suffering its worst economic blow ever, is showing a slow sign of improvement after a 1½-year slide.

But the timber operators who supply 65 per cent of the nation's lumber and plywood are not optimistic about the future because of modest price hikes this week, the first in 18 months.

Many have been severely hurt by the poor market, a lack of profit and forced mill closures. They view the price increases as a fluke and they remain bitter over a situation they believe was caused by the government.

Crow's Publications of Portland, which publishes timber industry newsletters and price lists, said half-inch plywood sheathing has risen 11.9 per cent to $134 per 1,000 square feet from last week's record low of $118. And the cost of random length 2-by-4s was up 14.8 per cent, to $135 per 1,000 board-feet from last week's $115.

Crow's editor Robert Smith, who talks regularly with operators throughout the industry, said in an interview, "These are substantial increases and certainly everybody is thankful. But I don't detect any feeling of permanence. I think most of them are expecting another dip. This may be the beginning of the turnaround we've been looking for. But we're not off the pad yet. This industry is still in a full-blown depression, the worst I've ever seen."

The timber industry is tightly linked to and largely at the mercy of the home building industry, which is dependent on the cost and availability of home loans.

Late in 1973, the Federal Reserve Board crippled available mortgage money, in an anti-inflation effort, by increasing interest on money that the Fed loans to savings and loan institutions. The increases were passed on to the borrowers.

At the same time, the Fed increased interest on federal reserve notes and reduced their minimum denomination, making it possible for small investors to buy notes of as little as $1,000 at 10 per cent interest, nearly twice that

paid by savings banks.
The result was major withdrawals from savings banks, which depleted the supply of money available for home loans.

The drop and other factors forced potential new home buyers out of the market. The desire to buy was there; the means were not.

New home starts, the barometer of the building industry, plummeted from 2 million in 1972 to just over 1 million in 1974.

The effect on the timber industry was immediate and disastrous: lumber and plywood mills began to cut back operations and lay off workers. Many mills shut down and remained closed for long periods.

In addition to the price hike, there has been another sign of improvement. Timber industry unemployment in Oregon, which hit an all-time high of 26.2 per cent last January, was down to 22 per cent in March, still one of the highest in the nation.

"We're still not anywhere near the production level this industry is capable of," said Nate Coleman, president of Lane Plywood, Inc., Eugene, Ore. "These price increases are the result of spring buying which would occur even to satisfy a small amount of demand. There ought to be a tremendous surge of buying this time of year, but I don't see it."

Astros Top Reds 6-4 Under Protest

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston Astros reliever Ken Forsch spoke softly and didn't allow Cincinnati's big sticks to take away a 6-4 Astro victory Friday night—even if the game was played under Manager Sparky Anderson's protest.

Forsch, suffering from laryngitis, came on in the pressure-packed ninth inning to get a save and keep the Reds from whipping the Astros in the final inning for the fourth time.

"Tonight they almost did it again," Astros Manager Preston Gomez said. "You can't relax against a team like Cincinnati. They keep coming back." Anderson's protest resulted from a seventh inning interference call from umpire Ed Vargo. Vargo called an automatic double play after he ruled that Reds' runner Merv Rettenmund interfered with Astros' shortstop Roger Metzger as he tried to make a double play.

Washington Beats Braves

LANDOVER, Md. (AP) — It has been said that the last 10 minutes are the only ones that really count in a pro basketball game. The Washington Bullets don't see it that way.

The Bullets came out roaring Friday night, ripping off fast breaks and forcing Buffalo out of its normal patterns as they beat the Braves 115-96 to clinch their National Basketball Association Eastern Conference semifinal series, 4-3.

Playoff series to determine the two conference champions begin Sunday, with Washington at Boston in the Eastern Conference and Chicago at Golden State in the Western Conference.

Washington grabbed a 4-3 advantage with 9:39 left to play in the opening period and never relinquished the lead while hitting half its shots and taking away Buffalo's torrid running attack.

"They came out the way we should have come out," said Braves Coach Jack Ramsay. "They established the tempo with those early fast breaks and played very aggressively."

Coach K.C. Jones of Washington said the Bullets' game plan was to open up their offense and take control as soon as possible.

Houston did all its scoring in the sixth and seventh innings with three runs in each frame.

Darcy balked in Cesar Cedeño for the first run in the sixth and Astro third baseman Doug Rader's single scored another. Dierker's grounder brought home the third run.

Cincinnati rebounded with two runs in the seventh on Joe Morgan's two-run single. Pete Rose led off with a single and Dave Concepcion followed with a double to set up Morgan's hit.

Houston scored its last three runs in the seventh on Bob Watson's double, Rader's single and a sacrifice bunt by Metzger. Concepcion's single in the eighth drove in the Reds' final run.

Nicklaus, on the other hand, isn't quite there. And the 6,855-yard La Costa Country Club course, with its deep, clinging rough and gusty breezes, is playing very tough for the fivetime Masters champion.

"I just wasn't very good," Nicklaus said after a pair of three-putts left him with a second-round 72 and a 142 total. "Nothing happened. I feel I'm not far from playing a good round, but it hasn't happened yet."

Lee Trevino, however, suddenly put it all together.

"I'm really playing good right now, and I just started putting good this week," said Trevino, who had eight oneputts and one no-putt in his best round of the season, a 65 that gave him a 137 total and a second alone going into Saturday's third round.

First-round leader Jim Colbert made double bogey six on his final hole for a 73 that sent him skidding back to third at 138. He was followed by J.C. Snead, 69-140 and Gene Littler, 72-141 with Nicklaus and South African Gary Player at 142. Player, the current British Open king, had a second-round 70.

U.S. Open champion Hale Irwin struggled to a hard-won 73-143 and Johnny Miller, the defending champion here, had only six men in the field behind him after a 75-149.

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — Last year at Indianapolis they lost the championship by one pin. Friday night they won it by five sticks.

with the margin to beat Steve Carlton. "When I first started playing baseball I swung at every pitch — over my head, in the dirt," said Sanguillen. "But I'm a smarter ballplayer now and I'm going to wait."

Sanguillen has had a history of first-ball and bad-ball hitting. Last year, the catcher had only 12 unintentional walks all season.

In the other National League games, the Houston Astros beat the Cincinnati Reds 6-4; the San Diego Padres stopped the Atlanta Braves 5-3; the New York Mets trimmed the Montreal Expos 5-3; the Chicago Cubs whipped the St. Louis Cardinals 4-3 and the Los Angeles Dodgers nipped the San Francisco Giants 6-5.

Sanguillen's homer backed the combined eight-hit pitching of Kison and Dave Giusti. The score was tied 1-1 going into the Pirate seventh when Richie Zisk reached base on an error by Philadelphia second baseman Dave Cash. Sanguillen followed with his home run into the left-field stands, coming off losing pitcher Carlton.

Kison, who boosted his record to 1-1, struck out six and allowed two walks but needed relief help from Giusti in the eighth. After an error and singles by Bob Boone and Jay Johnstone accounted for one run and put another runner at third, Giusti came in and got Alan Bannister to fly out, ending the inning.

Tigers Trip Red Sox

By FRED ROTHENBERG
AP Sports Writer
Baseball is a summer game, which is unfortunate for Mickey Lolich. And the game can take some strange turns, which proved unfortunate for Luis Tiant.

The temperature in Detroit at gametime was 43 degrees, working weather for Lolich, the Tigers left-hander who surrendered four hits and raised his record to 3-0 with a 1-0 victory over Tiant and the Red Sox Friday night.

Tiant was pitching perfect baseball for Boston and Lolich was just a couple of pitches behind. Tiant had retired the first 14 Tiger batters when rookie Dan Meyer stepped to the plate with two out in the fifth.

It was a classic confrontation between a crafty veteran and a raw rookie. But this time Tiant was too cagy for his own good. He served up a change-up, which Meyer slammed into the right-field stands for what proved to be the only run in the Tigers' triumph.

"It was my fault," said Tiant, who finished with a two-hitter. "I tried to fool him ... I can't do much about it. That's the way the game goes. Sometimes you pitch great and lose and sometimes you pitch lousy and win." In the winner's locker room, Lolich

New Leader Named In Barrel Race

In the cowgirls barrel racing at Longhorn Rodeo Friday, Marsha Grant from Benton, Ark., edged the present leader for the world championship, 10-year-old Metha Brorsen, by a tenth of a second to take over the lead.

For the second consecutive night, there was a capacity crowd in the Coliseum at the Ohio State Fairgrounds in Columbus. Marsha's time was 14.8 seconds.

John Kreder, St. Louis, Mo., and Jimmy Cleveland, Carter Okla., are tied for the lead in the bareback bronc riding with 72 points each after the second night of competition.

Also retaining his lead was Larry Davis, Brownsburg, Ind., in the calf roping with his run of 11 seconds. Elk Grove, Calif., cowboy John Mulock held his lead in saddle bronc riding with 76 points.

In steer wrestling, Jerry Kidde took over the lead with a 4.6 run.

Tommy Crandall retained first place in the bull riding contest with his outstanding 83 point score. The final Longhorn World Championship Rodeo performances are scheduled 2 p.m. and 8 p.m. today, 2 p.m. Sunday.

Denver Tops Hoosiers

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

One coach named Brown was smiling in victory, the other was gracious in defeat in the American Basketball Association semifinal series.

In Denver, a smiling Larry Brown basked in the glow of his team's 126-109 victory over Indiana here Friday night and said, "Now it's a three-game series."

In St. Louis, Kentucky Coach Hubie Brown praised the performance of the Spirits of St. Louis, who fashioned a 103-97 victory over his Colonels.

Larry Brown, the ABA coach of the year in his first season at Denver, was breathing easier after the victory tied the best-of-seven Western Division playoff series at 2-2 and ended the Nuggets' losing string at two games.

"We must be ready to play Sunday (in game No. 5 at Denver)," the youthful Brown said, "because the Pacers could pop right back and beat us the way we beat them tonight."

Hubie Brown directed his comments mainly at Spirits' floor leader Freddie Lewis, who despite his meager size of 6 feet, dragged down 12 rebounds to accompany his 32 points.

"No, I wouldn't say that Freddie's play was the key," insisted Brown, whose team maintains a 2-1 lead in the best-of-seven ABA semifinal series.

"But he not only only got them 30-some points, he also got them a ton of rebounds and played a heck of an all-around game," Brown said.

Wisconsin, Illini Split

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Wisconsin slumped to a third-place tie in the Big Ten baseball race after splitting a doubleheader with ninth-place Illinois.

Jon Siron blasted a grand slam homer in the first game Friday to give Illinois the 10-8 victory. Wisconsin's Scott Mackey pitched a three-hit shutout in the second contest for a 3-0 win.

The split dropped Wisconsin to 6-2 in conference behind unbeaten Michigan, 5-0, and Michigan State, 5-1.

Both played nonconference games Friday.

Minnesota dealt Ohio State a double defeat, 8-4 and 4-2 to jump back into contention with a 4-3 conference record.

Indiana's visit to Iowa City proved disastrous for Hoosiers, who dropped from a respectable fourth to a distant tie for sixth place after a double loss to the Iowa Hawkeyes, 10-4, 5-3.

was unwinding from his third victory of the season. Skeptics, after watching Lolich get battered in spring training, said his third victory wouldn't come until June.

"This may sound funny but we had too good weather in spring training," Lolich said. "The last two weeks of the spring season I was dead tired, out of gas."

"I always liked cold weather. I've always pitched well in cold weather. Now I've got it."

Elsewhere in the American League, the Chicago White Sox tripped the Kansas City Royals 5-2 and the California Angels dumped the Oakland A's 2-0. The Milwaukee Brewers-New York Yankees and the Cleveland Indians-Baltimore Orioles games were rained out.

Premier Pacer To Make 1975 Debut At Scioto Downs Track

If present plans materialize, one of the nations premier 3-year-old pacers will make his 1975 race debut at Scioto Downs after the season opens on May 16.

The highly regarded son of Bret Hanover, the World Champion Alert Bret should begin his sophomore season at the Columbus harness oval, according to reports out of Pompano Beach, Florida, winter training site of the famed Castleton Farm Stable from Lexington, Kentucky.

Glen Garnsey, the talented head trainer for Castleton Farms stated, "We are not sure just yet where Alert Bret will start, it could be Scioto Downs. We will be pointing him for the $175,000 Cane Pace at Yonkers Raceway on June 28, and the Scioto Challenge Stakes comes just before on June 19".

Alert Bret became the world champion juvenile pacer last fall after defeating his chief rival Nero, in 1:55 4-5 at Lexington, Kentucky.

Garnsey minces no words when talking about Alert Bret's 1975 campaign. Although his colt is heavily staked in every major race in the nation this year, Garnsey wants to win the Little Brown Jug, the sports premier pacing classic held every year at Delaware, Ohio.

You won't find Glen Garnsey's name among the leading race winning drivers. But percentage wise, he is near perfect. In only 285 starts in 1974, Garnsey had 93 wins, 51 seconds and 38 thirds.

Garnsey has never won the Little Brown Jug. Although he has had some close finishes, Garnsey thinks 1975 is his year, and Alert Bret is the horse.

Garnsey likes the under dog role Alert Bret is playing to Nero in the U.S. Trotting Association's 1975 Pre-Season Experimental Championship Ratings. Nero earned a 1975 rating mile of 1:54, while Alert Bret was assigned a rating mile of 1:54 1-5.

The Little Brown Jug officials rate Alert Bret and Nero as co-winterbook favorites to capture the legendary late September classic.

There are a lot of miles to race between May and September, and both Alert Bret and Nero are scheduled to race at Scioto Downs numerous times during the summer.

Massengale Leads Open

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — Rik Masengale, who has learned to live with — and even thrive on — his golfing problems this season, has gone 10 shots under par at 134 and taken a two-shot after two rounds of the Tallahassee Open.

Massengale, who won only $14,193 in his disastrous 1974 season, broke out of six-way deadlock at the start of Friday's play by firing his second straight 67 on the 7,134-yard Killbuck Golf and Country Club course.

Four fellow first-round leaders remained right behind him. John Toepel shot a 69 for a 136 total and second place, one shot ahead of Bobby Mitchell, Ralph Johnston and Steve Melnyk.

Thursday's fifth leader, Bob Shaw, soared to a two-over-par 74 and stands with eight others at 141. Ahead of him are Bert Yancey, Spike Kelley and Mason Rudolph at 139, and John Schroeder, Bob Charles, Pete Brown and Randy Erskine at 140.

Massengale, 10-years younger than his brother, former tour regular Don Massengale, never finished in the top 25 last year after earning $42,295 in 1973.

Stakes on June 19, Nero is not. Nero is eligible to the 3-year-old pacing division of the Scarlet and Gray Cup Series on August 14, Alert Bret is not.

Both Alert Bret and Nero are eligible to the Scioto Downs Little Brown Jug Preview on September 9, the final test just ten days before the coveted Jug itself on September 19.

1975 figures to be an epic year for both Alert Bret and Nero, and Scioto Downs could be the focal point in the developing chapters leading to the climax of the saga at Delaware, Ohio.

Sanguillen Leads Victory

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer
Manny Sanguillen has had it. No more swinging at bad pitches. No kidding.
"We have too many good hitters in our lineup for me to keep chasing bad pitches," says Pittsburgh's carefree swinger. "I'm not going to swing at bad pitches anymore — I'm going to wait for my pitch."

The Pirate catcher was as good as his word Friday night. He waited for his pitch and when he didn't see anything he liked, he walked. When he did see something he liked he hit a home run in the seventh inning with a man on base and provided Bruce Kison with the margin to beat Steve Carlton.

"When I first started playing baseball I swung at every pitch — over my head, in the dirt," said Sanguillen. "But I'm a smarter ballplayer now and I'm going to wait."
Sanguillen has had a history of first-ball and bad-ball hitting. Last year, the catcher had only 12 unintentional walks all season.

In the other National League games, the Houston Astros beat the Cincinnati Reds 6-4; the San Diego Padres stopped the Atlanta Braves 5-3; the New York Mets trimmed the Montreal Expos 5-3; the Chicago Cubs whipped the St. Louis Cardinals 4-3 and the Los Angeles Dodgers nipped the San Francisco Giants 6-5.

Sanguillen's homer backed the combined eight-hit pitching of Kison and Dave Giusti. The score was tied 1-1 going into the Pirate seventh when Richie Zisk reached base on an error by Philadelphia second baseman Dave Cash. Sanguillen followed with his home run into the left-field stands, coming off losing pitcher Carlton.

Kison, who boosted his record to 1-1, struck out six and allowed two walks but needed relief help from Giusti in the eighth. After an error and singles by Bob Boone and Jay Johnstone accounted for one run and put another runner at third, Giusti came in and got Alan Bannister to fly out, ending the inning.

Nicklaus, on the other hand, isn't quite there. And the 6,855-yard La Costa Country Club course, with its deep, clinging rough and gusty breezes, is playing very tough for the five-time Masters champion.

"I just wasn't very good," Nicklaus said after a pair of three-putts left him with a second-round 72 and a 142 total. "Nothing happened. I feel I'm not far from playing a good round, but it hasn't happened yet."

Lee Trevino, however, suddenly put it all together.

"I'm really playing good right now, and I just started putting good this week," said Trevino, who had eight oneputts and one no-putt in his best round of the season, a 65 that gave him a 137 total and a second alone going into Saturday's third round.

First-round leader Jim Colbert made double bogey six on his final hole for a 73 that sent him skidding back to third at 138. He was followed by J.C. Snead, 69-140 and Gene Littler, 72-141 with Nicklaus and South African Gary Player at 142. Player, the current British Open king, had a second-round 70.

U.S. Open champion Hale Irwin struggled to a hard-won 73-143 and Johnny Miller, the defending champion here, had only six men in the field behind him after a 75-149.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCIS DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR SUNDAY

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 20): If the past week put a drain on nerves or stamina, ease up to recoup energies; ambitions will brighten, too. You can rise above fatigue surprisingly well.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 to May 21): Matters on the immediate agenda should be taken care of as expected. Give a little where it would ease tensions, but not at the expense of principles.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21): This will be a day calling for calmness and good judgment. Do not let unexpected situations ruffle you and don't let yourself be pushed into undesirable "corner."

CANCER (June 22 to July 23): What you expect may not be what you receive — and may be for the best, without your realizing it. Emphasize your gracious, amenable side: It wins laurels, gains.

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23): Those "best things in life" are still free for the takers. Salute this auspicious day with hope, vigor and enthusiasm for your most worthwhile interests.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23): Once you know that your ideas have good potentialities, lose no time in trying to bring them to realization. Good planetary influences should help you.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23): You may think you have a project under control, rolling briskly. Better take another look for hidden flaws — anything that could mean time, energy lost.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 23): You may make a new acquaintance or renew an old friendship. Look for those "small" blessings and gains so often belittled. They could make your day!

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21): Everything seems to conspire to engender optimism and confidence. You should have a most interesting and inspiring day.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Neither renege on promises nor attempt too much. There are tendencies to both now. Accepted only what your better sense recognizes as suited to the day and your purposes.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Don't depart abruptly from a well-planned schedule, except where emergency so requires. Road may be bumpy in part, but rewards will be sweeter.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Don't go against present trends or you may find yourself completely out of step with others. Some of your future objectives are now taking shape.

YOU BORN TODAY: Taureans excel in the arts, music, as writers, promotional and advertising experts; also as scientists (especially in the medical field), inventors and teachers. You are extremely ambitious, but not necessarily in a material way. Your striving is for extraordinary attainment — and you usually achieve it, no matter what your field. Your personality is a quiet one, reserved and almost shy at times, so you often amaze others with your obstinacy when opposed. In fact, you can be downright stubborn at times. Try to be more flexible. Birthdate of: Gen. U.S. Grant, 18th Pres., U.S.A.; Samuel Morse, inventor (Morse code).

Your Horoscope

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR SUNDAY

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 20): If the past week put a drain on nerves or stamina, ease up to recoup energies; ambitions will brighten, too. You can rise above fatigue surprisingly well.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 to May 21): Matters on the immediate agenda should be taken care of as expected. Give a little where it would ease tensions, but not at the expense of principles.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21): This will be a day calling for calmness and good judgment. Do not let unexpected situations ruffle you and don't let yourself be pushed into undesirable "corner."

CANCER (June 22 to July 23): What you expect may not be what you receive — and may be for the best, without your realizing it. Emphasize your gracious, amenable side: It wins laurels, gains.

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23): Those "best things in life" are still free for the takers. Salute this auspicious day with hope, vigor and enthusiasm for your most worthwhile interests.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23): Once you know that your ideas have good potentialities, lose no time in trying to bring them to realization. Good planetary influences should help you.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23): You may think you have a project under control, rolling briskly. Better take another look for hidden flaws — anything that could mean time, energy lost.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 23): You may make a new acquaintance or renew an old friendship. Look for those "small" blessings and gains so often belittled. They could make your day!

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21): Everything seems to conspire to engender optimism and confidence. You should have a most interesting and inspiring day.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Neither renege on promises nor attempt too much. There are tendencies to both now. Accepted only what your better sense recognizes as suited to the day and your purposes.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Don't depart abruptly from a well-planned schedule, except where emergency so requires. Road may be bumpy in part, but rewards will be sweeter.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Don't go against present trends or you may find yourself completely out of step with others. Some of your future objectives are now taking shape.

YOU BORN TODAY: Taureans excel in the arts, music, as writers, promotional and advertising experts; also as scientists (especially in the medical field), inventors and teachers. You are extremely ambitious, but not necessarily in a material way. Your striving is for extraordinary attainment — and you usually achieve it, no matter what your field. Your personality is a quiet one, reserved and almost shy at times, so you often amaze others with your obstinacy when opposed. In fact, you can be downright stubborn at times. Try to be more flexible. Birthdate of: Gen. U.S. Grant, 18th Pres., U.S.A.; Samuel Morse, inventor (Morse code).

The task of conservation of soils is a project that is overlapped by many of the singular activities conducted by the SWCD.

In 1952, all soil survey activities of the Department of Agriculture were placed in the jurisdiction of the Soil Conservation Service.

This work includes mapping soils and classifying them as to hazards according to intended use.

The Pickaway Soil and Water Conservation District is also concerned with the planning and development of watershed schemes that will control all natural elements of a specific area.

They work with lakes, golf courses and other areas in the field of conservation from income-producing recreation facilities.

They are concerned with development, erosion and drainage problems of both rural and urban areas of the district, attempting to convince political leaders of the watershed area of their responsibility in the conservation of the environment.

They talk with farmers about erosion control of their farm land through minimum tillage operations, and are involved directly with the improvement of pasture land, which includes about 50 per cent of the land in the United States.

And, to complete the cycle, SWCD personnel are also concerned with woodland and wildlife development and preservation.

Cars Flunk Cincy Test

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)—The auto safety testing lanes in Cincinnati and suburban Norwood report that more than 29 per cent of the 64,983 cars tested for pollution violations have failed.

The federally ordered testing program to clean up air around Greater Cincinnati began here Jan. 1. Statistics published for the first quarter in the March issue of "Skylines," magazine of the Cincinnati Air Pollution Control Division, indicated that 20.9 per cent of the vehicles failed only the emissions test but passed long standing safety test requirements.

A total of 12.1 per cent of the vehicles failed safety tests and 8.2 per cent failed both.

Also, during March, Cincinnati's new uniformed air pollution inspectors cited 143 drivers for excessive exhaust emissions on city streets, 94 trucks, 488 automobiles and one bus.

CAPC reported Cincinnati air exceeded the standard index of 100 only once during the quarter, 118 on March 21.

The remainder of Hamilton County will come under emission testing but only on a voluntary basis starting in June.

The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency in Washington has proposed extension of the compulsory testing program to three northern Kentucky counties.

Legislative Report

By MYRL SHOEMAKER,
State Representative
88th House District

The Ohio General Assembly spent the third week of April passing legislation which would: 1) make Ohio a member of the Inter-state Corrections Compact; 2) prohibit the Board of Tax Appeals from requiring agricultural land owners to file a federal income tax return with applications for property tax exemptions; 3) require tornado drills in schools; and 4) permit four weeks of quarter horse racing in a county instead of two.

Also passed by the Ohio House was a major piece of legislation calling for the creation of an Ohio Rail Transportation Authority. The measure, H.B. 64, sponsored by Lucas County Representative Art Wilkowski, calls for aggressive state action to assure that Ohio's rail transportation system does not deteriorate, but in fact is improved, especially in the area of passenger rail transportation between Ohio's major cities.

During the two months of hearings held on the legislation by the Economic Affairs & Federal Relations Committee, strong bipartisan support for the concept of establishing a state rail plan was evidenced. Representatives from Republican U. S. Senator Robert Taft's office testified in support of the measure sponsored by a Democrat. Additionally, the final committee product had the strong imprint of Democrat and Republican cooperation.

The bill, which passed the House by an 86-5 vote, looks forward to the establishment of a high speed passenger rail service along the major population corridors in Ohio — for example, the Cleveland, Columbus, Cincinnati corridor.

It is estimated that a three "C" corridor passenger rail service would serve a potential 4,300,000 persons. In light of the energy crisis, the increased costs of automobiles and the increased cost of gasoline, Ohio's citizens will be looking for alternate and less expensive means of intercity transportation.

During the last General Assembly, legislation was enacted which required nearly all elected public officials to file an annual ethics disclosure statement. A basic purpose of the Ethics Law was to eliminate conflicts of interests which a public official might have, and to reassure the public that its public officials had nothing to hide while engaged in the public's business.

By April 15, I and my 98 colleagues in the House had filed our Ethics Disclosure Statements with the House Clerk's office. This was the second such filing in the history of Ohio. I believe it represents a strong commitment on the part of our elected state representatives to maintain the public's faith in its elected officials.

The legislative process of putting together a biennial budget has now entered an important stage in the House. House Finance Chairman Myrl Shoemaker has sent the budget bill to a 10-member sub-committee where the first major work of piecing together a financially and politically acceptable document will take place.

The sub-committee has been meeting throughout the week, and has been spending a considerable amount of time attempting to determine just how much money will be available to spend over the next two years.

Major attention has been focused on the income producing abilities of the taxes which the state levies (for example, sales tax, income tax, and cigarette tax), taxes which are paid into the state's General Revenue Fund (GRF).

Estimates of how much will be raised by the GRF revenue sources vary from a low of $5.91 billion to a high of $6.217 billion. This variance of $300 million represents why it is difficult to put together a state budget. No one can really be sure how much money will be available to meet the state's needs, yet a decision must be made on just how much is available, so that the "pie" can be divided with some certainty among the many interests competing for the available state revenue.

Another major item of attention during this past week's budget hearings has been on the subject of accountability and management of the state's funds.

When each budget bill is passed, each program of state government receives a specific amount of state dollars. These dollars are to be spent prudently, and on programs authorized by the legislature. Accordingly, the legislature's interest in the appropriation process does not end when the budget bill passes, but carries on throughout the biennial.

The legislature has traditionally monitored state spending through a body called the Controlling Board, a seven-member body made up of six legislators and one member of the executive branch of government.

The nature of the legislature's continuing control over state spending will be explored in depth later. For now, let me say that the accountability of state funding is a major concern during this budgetary hearing process. I shall keep you posted on developments in this area.

Youth Arrested In Accident

Seventeen-year-old Terry D. Abernathy, Route 3, Mt. Sterling, was charged by Pickaway County Sheriff's Deputy John Bost for driving while intoxicated, no operators permit and leaving the scene of an accident, when he was involved in a single-car wreck, 8:40 p.m. Friday.

Abernathy was southbound on the Williamsport-Palestine Road attempting to make a right turn onto Southward-Busick Road when he went left of center and struck a stop sign.

The auto continued 150-feet through the front yard and flowerbed of the Harold Blanton residence, Route 1, Williamsport, and then went back onto the road.

Leaving the scene of the accident, Abernathy was followed by Blanton until Deputy Bost was able to stop the youth on Route 62.

Vandals Damage Coke Machine

Vandals caused $175 damage to a Coke vending machine at the Custom Maintenance office, Route 3, Island Road, between 11:30 p.m. Thursday and 6 a.m. Friday.

According to Chuck Kerns, employee, the vandals attempted to break into the machine by using a tire tool apparently to take the money. Failing to enter the machine, the vandals broke the glass.

The machine is owned by the Scioto Coca Cola Bottling Co., 450 E. Town St. Deputy James Dixon investigated the report.

Thieves entered a combination chicken house and workshop, April 20, at the Donald Allen residence, Route 1, Kingston, taking tools valued at $125.

Thieves entered the building on Jackson Road, by going through a small opening.

Deputy Hick Franklin investigated the theft.

Jury Finds In Favor Of Plaintiff

A jury of eight seated Thursday morning returned a verdict Friday in favor of the plaintiff in a civil suit in Pickaway County Common Pleas Court. The jury deliberated almost an hour and returned to the courtroom with its findings at 3:40 p.m.

The case involved a claim of Robert S. Boggs for services performed on a residence owned by Robert E. Tootle and his wife.

Roy Huffer, representing the Tootles, had filed a cross-complaint for $10,000 compensatory damages and $50,000 punitive damages.

The jury found in favor of the plaintiff in the cross-complaint by not granting judgment for either of the amounts claimed and in favor of the plaintiff in the original complaint in the amount of $1496.50.

Plaintiff Boggs was represented by Stephen Gussler and had asked for that amount in his original suit.

Cars Flunk Cincy Test

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)—The auto safety testing lanes in Cincinnati and suburban Norwood report that more than 29 per cent of the 64,983 cars tested for pollution violations have failed.

The federally ordered testing program to clean up air around Greater Cincinnati began here Jan. 1.

Statistics published for the first quarter in the March issue of "Skylines," magazine of the Cincinnati Air Pollution Control Division, indicated that 20.9 per cent of the vehicles failed only the emissions test but passed long standing safety test requirements.

A total of 12.1 per cent of the vehicles failed safety tests and 8.2 per cent failed both.

Also, during March, Cincinnati's new uniformed air pollution inspectors cited 143 drivers for excessive exhaust emissions on city streets, 94 trucks, 488 automobiles and one bus.

CAPC reported Cincinnati air exceeded the standard index of 100 only once during the quarter, 118 on March 21.

The remainder of Hamilton County will come under emission testing but only on a voluntary basis starting in June.

The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency in Washington has proposed extension of the compulsory testing program to three northern Kentucky counties.

Legislative Report

By MYRL SHOEMAKER,
State Representative
88th House District

The Ohio General Assembly spent the third week of April passing legislation which would: 1) make Ohio a member of the Inter-state Corrections Compact; 2) prohibit the Board of Tax Appeals from requiring agricultural land owners to file a federal income tax return with applications for property tax exemptions; 3) require tornado drills in schools; and 4) permit four weeks of quarter horse racing in a county instead of two.

Also passed by the Ohio House was a major piece of legislation calling for the creation of an Ohio Rail Transportation Authority. The measure, H.B. 64, sponsored by Lucas County Representative Art Wilkowski, calls for aggressive state action to assure that Ohio's rail transportation system does not deteriorate, but in fact is improved, especially in the area of passenger rail transportation between Ohio's major cities.

During the two months of hearings held on the legislation by the Economic Affairs & Federal Relations Committee, strong bipartisan support for the concept of establishing a state rail plan was evidenced. Representatives from Republican U. S. Senator Robert Taft's office testified in support of the measure sponsored by a Democrat. Additionally, the final committee product had the strong imprint of Democrat and Republican cooperation.

The bill, which passed the House by an 86-5 vote, looks forward to the establishment of a high speed passenger rail service along the major population corridors in Ohio — for example, the Cleveland, Columbus, Cincinnati corridor.

It is estimated that a three "C" corridor passenger rail service would serve a potential 4,300,000 persons. In light of the energy crisis, the increased costs of automobiles and the increased cost of gasoline, Ohio's citizens will be looking for alternate and less expensive means of intercity transportation.

During the last General Assembly, legislation was enacted which required nearly all elected public officials to file an annual ethics disclosure statement. A basic purpose of the Ethics Law was to eliminate conflicts of interests which a public official might have, and to reassure the public that its public officials had nothing to hide while engaged in the public's business.

By April 15, I and my 98 colleagues in the House had filed our Ethics Disclosure Statements with the House Clerk's office. This was the second such filing in the history of Ohio. I believe it represents a strong commitment on the part of your elected state representatives to maintain the public's faith in its elected officials.

The legislative process of putting together a biennial budget has now entered an important stage in the House. House Finance Chairman Myrl Shoemaker has sent the budget bill to a 10-member sub-committee where the first major work of piecing together a financially and politically acceptable document will take place.

The sub-committee has been meeting throughout the week, and has been spending a considerable amount of time attempting to determine just how much money will be available to spend over the next two years.

Major attention has been focused on the income producing abilities of the taxes which the state levies (for example, sales tax, income tax, and cigarette tax), taxes which are paid into the state's General Revenue Fund (GRF).

Estimates of how much will be raised by the GRF revenue sources vary from a low of $5.91 billion to a high of $6.217 billion. This variance of $300 million represents why it is difficult to put together a state budget. No one can really be sure how much money will be available to meet the state's needs, yet a decision must be made on just how much is available, so that the "pie" can be divided with some certainty among the many interests competing for the available state revenue.

Another major item of attention during this past week's budget hearings has been on the subject of accountability and management of the state's funds.

When each budget bill is passed, each program of state government receives a specific amount of state dollars. These dollars are to be spent prudently, and on programs authorized by the legislature. Accordingly, the legislature's interest in the appropriation process does not end when the budget bill passes, but carries on throughout the biennial.

The legislature has traditionally monitored state spending through a body called the Controlling Board, a seven-member body made up of six legislators and one member of the executive branch of government.

The nature of the legislature's continuing control over state spending will be explored in depth later. For now, let me say that the accountability of state funding is a major concern during this budgetary hearing process. I shall keep you posted on developments in this area.

Youth Arrested In Accident

Seventeen-year-old Terry D. Abernathy, Route 3, Mt. Sterling, was charged by Pickaway County Sheriff's Deputy John Bost for driving while intoxicated, no operators permit and leaving the scene of an accident, when he was involved in a single-car wreck, 8:40 p.m. Friday.

According to Chuck Kerns, employee, the vandals attempted to break into the machine by using a tire tool apparently to take the money. Failing to enter the machine, the vandals broke the glass.

The machine is owned by the Scioto Coca Cola Bottling Co., 450 E. Town St. Deputy James Dixon investigated the report.

Thieves entered a combination chicken house and workshop, April 20, at the Donald Allen residence, Route 1, Kingston, taking tools valued at $125.
